OAS Mediators Launch Panama Invasion Probe

Cuban Officers' Peace Mission Ends In Failure

PANAMA (AP) — A Pan-American fact-finding team went to work Wednesday to see what can be done about calling off the small invasion of Panama by outlawed revolutionary adventurers from Cuba.

There were no reports of any new action between Panama's military forces and the band of invaders that landed on the Caribbean coast last weekend. Nor was there any word on reports that more insurgents are on their way to Panama beachheads.

The five-man committee from the 21-nation Organization of American States began its efforts after two Cuban officers on a peace mission failed to negotiate a surrender with the invaders. Most of them are Cuban.

Spokesmen for President Ernesto de la Buardia's government said Panama is leaving the situation in the hands of the OAS.

Confer With Officials

Shortly after their arrival, the five OAS diplomats conferred with Panamanian officials and then questioned four members of the invasion force. Three of the invaders were captured and the fourth defected.

The diplomats hurried from the Washington headquarters of the Organization of American States. They were authorized to conduct an on-the-spot check after the OAS voted unanimous condemnation of any foreign attempts to interfere in Panama's internal affairs.

The mission includes John C. Dreier, the U.S. ambassador to the OAS; and is headed by Brazil's OAS ambassador, Fernando Lobo.

En route here, Lobo said the group's military advisers would try to contact the invaders on their beachhead.

Cuban Mediators Fail

The first mediators to meet with the rebels were two bearded officers sent by Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro's government, which says it is greatly embarrassed that Cuba was used as an invasion base.

One of the officers, Capt. Armando Torres, returned from the rebel camp and reported the invaders—who landed from Cuba on Sunday—will give up only if they are shipped right back to Cuba and are not punished.

But Panama would only promise the rebels' lives will be spared if they give up. There was no immunity from prosecution.

The rebels, most of them Cubans, are holed up in the little Caribbean coastal town of Nombre de Dios, about 20 miles from the northern terminus of the strategic Panama Canal.

Ike Says Nixon May Sit In Part Time If Summit Talks Held

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower left the way open Wednesday for Vice President Richard M. Nixon to sit in part time at a prospective big power summit conference.

Eisenhower said he has suggested the possibility that he might require a substitute while he comes home on business for a few days at a time. But he said no plans for this have been made.

Such a show of confidence in the vice president, should it take place, certainly would do nothing to impair Nixon's prestige or his chances of capturing the Republican presidential nomination next year.

Eisenhower didn't go into the political implications. He put the whole matter on an iffy basis at his first Washington news conference in five weeks.

This was a conference dealing in large measure with people and appointments. But it veered around among all sorts of subjects and produced such varied effects as:

1. A frosty presidential aloofness to criticism from an old wartime comrade, Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery of Britain, who says U.S. leadership of the free world "isn't as good as it might be."

2. Sturdy defenses of lady diplomat Clare Boothe Luce and Secretary of Commerce Lewis S. Strauss. Their appointments stirred up some feuds with senators.

3. A bid to the House to tighten the Senate's labor control bill. Eisenhower said it doesn't deal properly and effectively with the secondary boycott and blackmail picketing and ought to clarify the authority of states to act in fields outside the jurisdiction of the National Labor Relations Board.

As approved by the Senate, Eisenhower said, the bill has definite weaknesses and he is very much disappointed with it. He said a bill of rights for rank-and-file union members was a fine thing as originally spliced onto the measure by Sen. John L. McClellan (D-Ark). But as the Senate later revised it, Eisenhower said, it is no substitute for the items he wants.

The chief executive wasn't ready to discuss a site for the summit session he is expected to hold later in the year with the British, French and Soviet heads of government. To a reporter pressing him about San Francisco, the city where he received his second-term presidential nomination, Eisenhower came up with a subdued: "Well, I always like to go to San Francisco."

Geneva is regarded as a more likely spot. Nixon probably would be required in a fill-in capacity only if the meeting were held abroad.

Woman Picks Out Attacker

QUITMAN, Ga. (AP) — A 16-year-old Negro with face scratches and teeth marks on his chest has been identified by a white woman as the person who raped her Tuesday.

The 25-year-old married woman, whose name was withheld under state law, earlier Wednesday exonerated Jesse G. Graham Jr., 21-year-old Negro, who had been suspected and was the object of a search by some 500 persons Tuesday night.

The rape victim told officers her attacker said his name was Jesse G. Graham Jr.

Graham surrendered to Sheriff R. W. Jones when he learned he was being sought in the case. Jones spirited him to the Thomasville jail, 29 miles west of here, to avoid possible violence.

The sheriff refused to speculate on what might have happened to Graham if the crowd looking for him Tuesday night had found him before he surrendered to the officer.

Rail Jobless Pay, Pension Boosts Given Green Light

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Congress overwhelmingly approved a bill Wednesday providing for increases in pension and unemployment benefits to the nation's railroad workers. Pensions would go up 10 per cent and jobless benefits by 20 to 140 per cent.

The bill was pushed through the Senate by voice vote after less than an hour of debate. The House, which had been debating the legislation for five hours, then approved it and sent it back to the Senate for action on a minor amendment.

The legislation was backed by railway labor unions who won out in the face of opposition from the railroads, the Budget Bureau and the House Commerce Committee.

Railroads complained the measure would cost them more than $200,000,000 a year over the long-run.

Defeated on the House floor was an effort by the House Commerce Committee to hold down the cost a little by denying a union demand for an unprecedented 52 weeks of jobless pay benefits for veteran railroad workers.

The committee plan was rejected 181-91.

House GOP Leader Charles Halleck (R-Ind.) warned against passage of the labor - backed substitute.

"The railroads are in trouble," he said. "We must stop, look and listen before we go too far," he declared.

The legislation would provide jobless benefits ranging as high as $51 a week for 52 weeks for employes who are laid off after 15 years service.

Spanish Airliner Crashes; 28 Dead

MADRID (AP)—A Spanish airliner with 25 passengers and three crew members aboard crashed near Cuenca Wednesday. Officials said all were killed.

The wreckage was found 100 miles southwest of Madrid.

It was learned that Joaquin Blume, Spain's European gymnastics champion, and his wife were among those who boarded the plane at Barcelona.

On the plane with Blume were Olga Sole, Pablo Muller, Jose Aguilar and Ruy Aguilar. The five, going to compete in a meet in the Canary Islands, were considered among Spain's most outstanding gymnasts.

Mrs. Luce Praised By Eisenhower

Crack At Morse 'Perfectly Human,' President Says

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower held Wednesday that it "was perfectly human," even if ill-advised" for Clare Boothe Luce to comment that Sen. Wayne Morse (D-Ore) was once kicked in the head by a horse.

What's more, Eisenhower told his news conference, the Senate row over confirming her appointment had in no major way damaged the usefulness of Mrs. Luce as ambassador to Brazil.

Eisenhower, who remembers that in 1952 Morse endorsed and then denounced him, seemed to find the current situation funny.

He laughed hard at the very first question. This was whether Mrs. Luce should follow the advice of her husband, editor Henry R. Luce of Time magazine.

Luce's advice was that in view of some senators' criticism of his wife, and its possible effect on the Brazilians, she should resign the ambassadorship in which the Senate confirmed her Tuesday.

Eisenhower replied that Mrs. Luce had done brilliant work when she was ambassador to Italy and "I have always known her as a dedicated and useful public servant."

Morse's Charges Recalled

Next he took passing note of the difficulties attending her confirmation—mainly Morse's charges that she was totally unfit—and added: "Then she made a remark."

This remark was in a statement Mrs. Luce gave The Associated Press in New York when asked for comment on her confirmation. She first expressed gratification, and then tossed some figurative feathers in the fan by adding: "We must now wait until the dirt settles. My difficulties, of course, go some years back and began when Sen. Wayne Morse was kicked in the head by a horse."

Morse retorted on the Senate floor that "this is part of an old pattern of mental instability on her part."

Sen. Everett M. Dirksen (R-Ill) told the Senate Wednesday he talked by telephone Tuesday night with Dr. Milton Rosenbluth in New York, at Mrs. Luce's request.

Not Treated By Psychiatrist

The doctor told him, Dirksen reported, that Morse had inquired of him whether Mrs. Luce had ever been under psychiatric care and was told: "To the best of my knowledge, she had not."

Morse explained to the Senate he felt he was justified to look into the mental health of Mrs. Luce, on the basis of his personal observations. He said he had almost completed work toward a doctorate in abnormal psychology when he decided instead to become a lawyer.

"I said to myself, I am not confident of this witness' emotional stability," he advised the Senate.

Dirksen maintained that Morse had invited a doctor to violate his professional oath, and should instead have asked Mrs. Luce's consent to check with her doctor.

With heavy sarcasm, Morse replied: "I should call up Clare and say 'Give me permission to see how stable you are by calling some doctors?' That's absurd."

Dulles Shows Improvement

WASHINGTON (AP)—The State Department reported improvement Wednesday night in the comfort and general condition of former Secretary of State John Foster Dulles.

Dulles has been at Walter Reed Army Medical Center most of the time since Feb. 10, undergoing treatment for cancer.

Radiation treatments to the back of his neck were reported completed last Friday without significant easing in Dulles' pain noted at the time.

A State Department press officer, Joseph Reap, said in a new medical bulletin Wednesday night "There has been improvement in Secretary Dulles' comfort and general condition since the end of last week. His spirits are good and his weight is stationary.

"There has been a general easing of the pain."

Stability of weight is considered a hopeful sign in a cancer patient. Reap declined to give Dulles' present weight. It normally had been 185 pounds.

Free, Alive And In Good Shape

"Little Richard," 'coon-hunting hound, is carried by his master, Larry Wilson, from a rocky den after the dog's rescue yesterday from a crevice in which he was imprisoned six nights and nearly that many days. A veterinarian, to whose Tulsa, Okla., hospital the dog was rushed, reported Little Richard was dehydrated and had ticks, otherwise was all right. (AP Photofax)

'Little Richard' Rescued From Limestone Trap

OWASSO, Okla., (AP) — Spunky Little Richard, a blue tick 'coon hound, crept from a limestone tomb after six days and nights Wednesday and feebly crawled into his master's arms.

The 2½-year-old dog scrambled into bright sunlight after 200 people had worked off-and-on until nearly noon to chip him from his rocky vise. A small dynamite blast, the last of six, and a jackhammer removed the final stubborn stone.

As the crowd waited, Little Richard slowly ambled out into the waiting arms of his master, 20-year-old Larry Wilson.

After a quick examination by Dr. John Collins, Little Richard was placed in an ambulance that had been standing by for several days. With siren screaming, it rushed him to an animal hospital in Tulsa.

There, Little Richard flipped his tail from side to side, scratched a tick, then dozed off.

Wilson and Don Davidson share the hound's ownership but it was Wilson who used Little Richard last Thursday night for the fateful raccoon hunt that led to the trouble.

Pursuing a 'coon, Little Richard was led into the jumble of fissured rock and fell into the crevice.

Collins, who stood by throughout the night as the workers scratched at gritty limestone and stubborn granite, said the hound lost about 10 pounds of the 60 he weighed before his ordeal.

The veterinarian said Little Richard "has every chance in the world to pull through."

Wilson and Davidson sighed with relief.

"It sure feels good," said Wilson. "I started out with a pick to dig him out, then we got help from everybody."

Bank Robber Added To 'Most Wanted' List

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The FBI gave Emmett Bernard Kervan a rather unpleasant gift on the occasion of his 51st birthday Wednesday. It placed Kervan, an armed bandit with a yen for spicy foods and high living, on its list of 10 most wanted fugitives.

The FBI hopes Kervan will not prove as elusive as the criminal he replaces on the list. The replaced man is Frank L. Sprenz, the Ohio bank robber who used stolen airplanes for his getaways until captured in Mexico earlier this month.

Like his predecessor on the list, Kervan, described as greying but agile, is wanted for bank robbery. He is under indictment in Connecticut for the robbery of the East Norwalk branch of the Merchants Bank and Trust Co., on Feb. 5.

Railroads Agree On Merger Plan

NEW YORK (UPI)—The Delaware, Lackawanna & Western Railroad and the Erie Railroad have agreed on a merger plan that would create a rail system ranking among the top 10 in the industry, the two roads announced jointly Wednesday.

Under terms of the merger recommendation, Erie shareholders would receive 1¼ shares of common stock in the new consolidated system for each common share held and Lackawanna shareowners would receive one new share for each old share held, the announcement said.

The merger agreement is subject to the approval of stockholders of both carriers and regulatory agencies.

The merger would create a rail system covering 3,119 miles of trackage extending from Jersey City and Hoboken, N.J. westward to Scranton, Binghamton, Buffalo, Youngstown, Cleveland, Akron and Chicago.

British Plane Wreck Sighted

NICOSIA, Cyprus (UPI)— The wreckage of a British plane carrying secret rocket parts to Australia was sighted on a Turkish mountain Wednesday, about 100 miles from the Soviet border.

It was believed all 12 persons aboard were dead.

The plane, a civil transport, vanished Thursday on the Ankara-Bahrein leg of a trip from London to the Woomera rocket test range in Central Australia.

At first it was feared it might have wandered off course and had been downed in Soviet territory like a U.S. Air Force transport flying in the area last fall.

But the Russians denied any knowledge of it and Royal Air Force search planes sighted the wreckage Wednesday on Subhan Dagh Mountain, an extinct volcano in Turkey.

U.S. Rejects Newest Soviet Flight Protest

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States Wednesday night rejected the Soviet Union's newest protest against high-altitude flights by American planes in the Berlin air corridor.

The State Department brushed aside the Soviet complaint less than two hours after Radio Moscow broadcast the text of a formal protest.

The Soviets contended American flights higher than 10,000 feet are "completely devoid of legal foundation."

In reply, a State Department spokesman reaffirmed that American planes will fly above 10,000 feet any time they believe it necessary for efficient operation.

"The position of the United States government has been clearly and emphatically stated in its note of April 13," said press officer Joseph Reap.

Reap recalled these words in the American note: "Flights by aircraft of the United States do not require any prior agreement from the Soviet element, and the United States never has recognized any limitation to the right to fly at any altitude in the corridors."

The flights the U.S.S.R. has complained about are those made by C130 turboprop Air Force transports. Soviet fighters have buzzed the C130 planes twice.

In its new protest Wednesday the Soviets claimed that refusal to halt such flights can be considered only as moves to aggravate prospects for East-West talks just before the Big Four foreign ministers are to meet in Geneva May 11 to discuss Germany.

In the cold war's Berlin dispute, the Soviet Union contends that Allied flights to the isolated city must not be made above 10,000 feet.

Estimated Size Of Space Radiation Belt Increased

WASHINGTON (AP) — The natural band of space radiation which could imperil space travel extends —at least at times—much farther aloft than previously thought, Dr. James Van Allen said Wednesday.

He said estimates of the band's extent were revised on the basis of measurements by the first U.S. artificial planet.

Van Allen, of the State University of Iowa, is the principal discoverer of the radiation belt — really two separate belts which hang suspended like monster doughnuts around the earth, but with openings above both the North and South Pole regions.

Van Allen said measurements radioed back from the Pioneer IV space probe, while en route to its orbit around the sun, tentatively indicate that:

The outer limits of the Van Allen radiation belt extend, at least at times, to an altitude of 52,250 miles from the earth, compared with a distance of 33,500 miles clocked by Pioneer's predecessor, Pioneer III. The latter soared to an altitude of some 70,000 miles before plunging back into the earth's atmosphere.

Thus, Van Allen told a space symposium sponsored by the National Academy of Sciences and the American Physical Society, the new dimensions of the belt are tentatively estimated this way:

1. The radiation belt closest to the earth begins at about 1,300 miles altitude and extends about 3,000 miles from the earth's surface. This is the same as previous estimates.

2. The outer belt begins at about 8,000 miles and extends to 52,250 miles—or 18,750 miles farther than clocked by Pioneer III.

Unexpected Unity Found By Ministers

Allied Conferees Hit Minor Snag On Military Security

PARIS (AP) — Western foreign ministers were reported to have hit a minor snag on military security but reached large areas of agreement Wednesday in the opening sessions of a meeting to unify their positions for Geneva talks with the Soviet Union.

"We covered more ground than we expected," said a spokesman for U.S. Secretary of State Christian A. Herter. "Everything went smoothly. No major differences developed."

Foreign ministers of the United States, Britain, France and West Germany are taking part in the consultations in the French Foreign Ministry preparatory to the East-West foreign ministers conference opening at Geneva May 11.

Secrecy Imposed

The ministers hung a secrecy tag on the opening sessions. But official spokesmen and talkative participants let out a few things to newsmen.

The American spokesman said the ministers had agreed to recall the group of experts who had drafted proposals for the Geneva conference.

These experts, he said, will "draw up some new language for some sections of their over-all report."

He wouldn't identify the sections involved, but West German sources said they dealt largely with the touchy issue of how much to offer the Soviets on military security in Europe.

The British have been described as wanting to plug for a troop reduction, or freeze, in Europe. The Germans opposed that project for a long time, but now say they are agreed to a troop cut under certain conditions. These conditions still must be worked out.

Delegation Pleased

By and large, all four delegations represented themselves as pleased with the way things went.

The experts tentatively linked Western proposals on Berlin, German unification and European security in their draft of a master package plan. Some reports before the ministers convened said the British appeared to favor solution of the Berlin problem outside that package.

But the American spokesman said without qualification: "No one came up with any concept that would call for a revision of the package idea."

Armed Woman Defies Police

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — An elderly woman armed with a shotgun stood off scores of police, firemen and a tear gas barrage Wednesday for nearly four hours before surrendering.

Mrs. Catherine Ranonis, about 70, drew roars of approval from thousands of spectators when she picked up the tear gas bombs and tossed them from the third floor window of her home back into the crowd of police and firemen.

Police were called when Mrs. Ranonis threw water on employes of a neighboring undertaking establishment after protesting when they parked their vehicles in front of her home.

Taking refuge on the third floor and armed with the shotgun, Mrs. Ranonis defied police and refused to talk with either a priest or with her son, John, called to the scene from work.

The son left the house after his mother fired a blast from the shotgun down the stairway in his direction.

Spectators were amazed that Mrs. Ranonis was able to withstand the tear gas fumes for about 45 minutes although firemen and police wearing gas masks were forced from the building. Although she threw back the bombs, the house eventually was filled with the eye-watering gas.

Finally, nearly four hours after the siege started, Mrs. Ranonis leaned out the window dangling her arms and indicated surrender.

A State Department press officer, Joseph Reap, said in a new medical bulletin Wednesday night "There has been improvement in Secretary Dulles' comfort and general condition since the end of last week. His spirits are good and his weight is stationary.

"There has been a general easing of the pain."

Stability of weight is considered a hopeful sign in a cancer patient. Reap declined to give Dulles' present weight. It normally had been 185 pounds.

Free, Alive And In Good Shape

"Little Richard," 'coon-hunting hound, is carried by his master, Larry Wilson, from a rocky den after the dog's rescue yesterday from a crevice in which he was imprisoned six nights and nearly that many days. A veterinarian, to whose Tulsa, Okla., hospital the dog was rushed, reported Little Richard was dehydrated and had ticks, otherwise was all right. (AP Photofax)

'Little Richard' Rescued From Limestone Trap

OWASSO, Okla., (AP) — Spunky Little Richard, a blue tick 'coon hound, crept from a limestone tomb after six days and nights Wednesday and feebly crawled into his master's arms.

The 2½-year-old dog scrambled into bright sunlight after 200 people had worked off-and-on until nearly noon to chip him from his rocky vise. A small dynamite blast, the last of six, and a jackhammer removed the final stubborn stone.

As the crowd waited, Little Richard slowly ambled out into the waiting arms of his master, 20-year-old Larry Wilson.

After a quick examination by Dr. John Collins, Little Richard was placed in an ambulance that had been standing by for several days. With siren screaming, it rushed him to an animal hospital in Tulsa.

There, Little Richard flipped his tail from side to side, scratched a tick, then dozed off.

Wilson and Don Davidson share the hound's ownership but it was Wilson who used Little Richard last Thursday night for the fateful raccoon hunt that led to the trouble.

Pursuing a 'coon, Little Richard was led into the jumble of fissured rock and fell into the crevice.

Collins, who stood by throughout the night as the workers scratched at gritty limestone and stubborn granite, said the hound lost about 10 pounds of the 60 he weighed before his ordeal.

The veterinarian said Little Richard "has every chance in the world to pull through."

Wilson and Davidson sighed with relief.

"It sure feels good," said Wilson. "I started out with a pick to dig him out, then we got help from everybody."

Bank Robber Added To 'Most Wanted' List

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The FBI gave Emmett Bernard Kervan a rather unpleasant gift on the occasion of his 51st birthday Wednesday. It placed Kervan, an armed bandit with a yen for spicy foods and high living, on its list of 10 most wanted fugitives.

The FBI hopes Kervan will not prove as elusive as the criminal he replaces on the list. The replaced man is Frank L. Sprenz, the Ohio bank robber who used stolen airplanes for his getaways until captured in Mexico earlier this month.

Like his predecessor on the list, Kervan, described as greying but agile, is wanted for bank robbery. He is under indictment in Connecticut for the robbery of the East Norwalk branch of the Merchants Bank and Trust Co., on Feb. 5.

Railroads Agree On Merger Plan

NEW YORK (UPI)—The Delaware, Lackawanna & Western Railroad and the Erie Railroad have agreed on a merger plan that would create a rail system ranking among the top 10 in the industry, the two roads announced jointly Wednesday.

Under terms of the merger recommendation, Erie shareholders would receive 1¼ shares of common stock in the new consolidated system for each common share held and Lackawanna shareowners would receive one new share for each old share held, the announcement said.

The merger agreement is subject to the approval of stockholders of both carriers and regulatory agencies.

The merger would create a rail system covering 3,119 miles of trackage extending from Jersey City and Hoboken, N.J. westward to Scranton, Binghamton, Buffalo, Youngstown, Cleveland, Akron and Chicago.

British Plane Wreck Sighted

NICOSIA, Cyprus (UPI)— The wreckage of a British plane carrying secret rocket parts to Australia was sighted on a Turkish mountain Wednesday, about 100 miles from the Soviet border.

It was believed all 12 persons aboard were dead.

The plane, a civil transport, vanished Thursday on the Ankara-Bahrein leg of a trip from London to the Woomera rocket test range in Central Australia.

At first it was feared it might have wandered off course and had been downed in Soviet territory like a U.S. Air Force transport flying in the area last fall.

But the Russians denied any knowledge of it and Royal Air Force search planes sighted the wreckage Wednesday on Subhan Dagh Mountain, an extinct volcano in Turkey.

U.S. Rejects Newest Soviet Flight Protest

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States Wednesday night rejected the Soviet Union's newest protest against high-altitude flights by American planes in the Berlin air corridor.

The State Department brushed aside the Soviet complaint less than two hours after Radio Moscow broadcast the text of a formal protest.

The Soviets contended American flights higher than 10,000 feet are "completely devoid of legal foundation."

In reply, a State Department spokesman reaffirmed that American planes will fly above 10,000 feet any time they believe it necessary for efficient operation.

"The position of the United States government has been clearly and emphatically stated in its note of April 13," said press officer Joseph Reap.

Reap recalled these words in the American note: "Flights by aircraft of the United States do not require any prior agreement from the Soviet element, and the United States never has recognized any limitation to the right to fly at any altitude in the corridors."

The flights the U.S.S.R. has complained about are those made by C130 turboprop Air Force transports. Soviet fighters have buzzed the C130 planes twice.

In its new protest Wednesday the Soviets claimed that refusal to halt such flights can be considered only as moves to aggravate prospects for East-West talks just before the Big Four foreign ministers are to meet in Geneva May 11 to discuss Germany.

In the cold war's Berlin dispute, the Soviet Union contends that Allied flights to the isolated city must not be made above 10,000 feet.

Estimated Size Of Space Radiation Belt Increased

WASHINGTON (AP) — The natural band of space radiation which could imperil space travel extends —at least at times—much farther aloft than previously thought, Dr. James Van Allen said Wednesday.

He said estimates of the band's extent were revised on the basis of measurements by the first U.S. artificial planet.

Van Allen, of the State University of Iowa, is the principal discoverer of the radiation belt — really two separate belts which hang suspended like monster doughnuts around the earth, but with openings above both the North and South Pole regions.

Van Allen said measurements radioed back from the Pioneer IV space probe, while en route to its orbit around the sun, tentatively indicate that:

The outer limits of the Van Allen radiation belt extend, at least at times, to an altitude of 52,250 miles from the earth, compared with a distance of 33,500 miles clocked by Pioneer's predecessor, Pioneer III. The latter soared to an altitude of some 70,000 miles before plunging back into the earth's atmosphere.

Thus, Van Allen told a space symposium sponsored by the National Academy of Sciences and the American Physical Society, the new dimensions of the belt are tentatively estimated this way:

1. The radiation belt closest to the earth begins at about 1,300 miles altitude and extends about 3,000 miles from the earth's surface. This is the same as previous estimates.

2. The outer belt begins at about 8,000 miles and extends to 52,250 miles—or 18,750 miles farther than clocked by Pioneer III.

Unexpected Unity Found By Ministers

Allied Conferees Hit Minor Snag On Military Security

PARIS (AP) — Western foreign ministers were reported to have hit a minor snag on military security but reached large areas of agreement Wednesday in the opening sessions of a meeting to unify their positions for Geneva talks with the Soviet Union.

"We covered more ground than we expected," said a spokesman for U.S. Secretary of State Christian A. Herter. "Everything went smoothly. No major differences developed."

Foreign ministers of the United States, Britain, France and West Germany are taking part in the consultations in the French Foreign Ministry preparatory to the East-West foreign ministers conference opening at Geneva May 11.

Secrecy Imposed

The ministers hung a secrecy tag on the opening sessions. But official spokesmen and talkative participants let out a few things to newsmen.

The American spokesman said the ministers had agreed to recall the group of experts who had drafted proposals for the Geneva conference.

These experts, he said, will "draw up some new language for some sections of their over-all report."

He wouldn't identify the sections involved, but West German sources said they dealt largely with the touchy issue of how much to offer the Soviets on military security in Europe.

The British have been described as wanting to plug for a troop reduction, or freeze, in Europe. The Germans opposed that project for a long time, but now say they are agreed to a troop cut under certain conditions. These conditions still must be worked out.

Delegation Pleased

By and large, all four delegations represented themselves as pleased with the way things went.

The experts tentatively linked Western proposals on Berlin, German unification and European security in their draft of a master package plan. Some reports before the ministers convened said the British appeared to favor solution of the Berlin problem outside that package.

But the American spokesman said without qualification: "No one came up with any concept that would call for a revision of the package idea."

Armed Woman Defies Police

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — An elderly woman armed with a shotgun stood off scores of police, firemen and a tear gas barrage Wednesday for nearly four hours before surrendering.

Mrs. Catherine Ranonis, about 70, drew roars of approval from thousands of spectators when she picked up the tear gas bombs and tossed them from the third floor window of her home back into the crowd of police and firemen.

Police were called when Mrs. Ranonis threw water on employes of a neighboring undertaking establishment after protesting when they parked their vehicles in front of her home.

Taking refuge on the third floor and armed with the shotgun, Mrs. Ranonis defied police and refused to talk with either a priest or with her son, John, called to the scene from work.

The son left the house after his mother fired a blast from the shotgun down the stairway in his direction.

Spectators were amazed that Mrs. Ranonis was able to withstand the tear gas fumes for about 45 minutes although firemen and police wearing gas masks were forced from the building. Although she threw back the bombs, the house eventually was filled with the eye-watering gas.

Finally, nearly four hours after the siege started, Mrs. Ranonis leaned out the window dangling her arms and indicated surrender.

Trim Dutch Freighter Sets Fast Pace In Race To Chicago Via New Seaway

CHICAGO (AP)—A trim Dutch freighter cruised far out in front Wednesday in the race from the rebuilt St. Lawrence Seaway to Chicago.

The Prins Johan Willem Friso moved closer and closer to the honor of being the first sizable seagoing ship to make the full trip over the St. Lawrence - Great Lakes water route.

Her arrival at the end of the line will complete the larger link between the prairies of the Midwest and the ocean lanes of the world.

The Friso drove southward in Lake Michigan with a lead of about 250 miles over her closest competition, the American flag ship Santa Regina.

The flying Dutchman planned to stop for a welcome in Milwaukee. The Santa Regina figured to steam through the Mackinac Straits between Lake Huron and Lake Michigan.

The Friso was scheduled to arrive off Chicago—90 miles south of Milwaukee—about 4 a.m. Thursday and ride at anchor until about 10:15 a.m. before slipping in for a warm reception.

The vessel will be a symbol of a dream come true for Chicagoans. For this city, and other ports on the Great Lakes, have high hopes that the seaway will bring them more business.

The swift St. Lawrence has been deepened from 14 feet to around 25 and old locks that limited passage to ships about 250 feet in length have been replaced.

The Friso, 353 feet long, and the Santa Regina, 459½ feet long, started the westward voyage from Montreal with the opening of the new seaway Saturday.

The Friso is carrying a cargo of wines, artificial flowers, glassed mushrooms, toys, twines, window glass, farm implements and hides.

The Santa Regina is carrying only ballast, but will pick up cargo for a return trip.

Tawes Uses Veto Power First Time

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—Gov. Tawes Wednesday used his veto power for the first time on a bill to prohibit removal of seed oysters from St. Marys County.

The proposed law, sponsored by Sen. Dorsey (D-St. Marys) and passed by the 1959 General Assembly, would have required the Department of Tidewater Fisheries to close and re-seed all natural oyster bars in the county.

Tawes, who has signed some 800 bills from the past Legislature, said he is convinced his veto is "in the best interests of the state's seafood industry."

The governor pointed out that the Tidewater Fisheries Commission now has power to open or close St. Mary's River to the taking of seed and to signify how and where it may be used.

Montgomery, Khrushchev Talk 2 Hours

MOSCOW (UPI)—British Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery held a "friendly" two-hour discussion with Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev on the cold war Wednesday while President Eisenhower and the British press criticized him for talking too much.

The "private citizen's" conference in Khrushchev's Kremlin office was the highpoint of a busy day for the visiting Montgomery. He lunched with top Soviet military officials, took a sight-seeing tour on which he made no attempt to hide his boredom, and visited a children's department store where a Soviet officer paid for his purchases of dolls and books.

A Tass News Agency dispatch said Montgomery and Khrushchev held a "friendly conversation" during which a number of questions "dealing with the international situation and Soviet-British relations were touched upon."

Montgomery refused to disclose to newsmen the details of the talks.

But, he said: "The talk was so friendly and so interesting that I shall try to see him again tomorrow."

Montgomery, in a filmed television interview shortly before he left London for Moscow, attacked the United States' postwar leadership and policies. The interview was televised in the United States Tuesday night and brought strong condemnations from the British press.

NEW YORK (AP)—Entertainer Arthur Godfrey goes under the surgeon's knife Thursday to determine if he has cancer.

Suffering from a chest tumor, he entered Harkness Pavilion of the Columbia-Presbyterian Medical Center Monday. He was under sedation Wednesday while tests were made in preparation for the operation.

The hospital said he will probably be taken to the operating room about 8 a.m. There was no estimate of how long the operation might take.

'First Blow' Warning To Russia Suggested By N.J. Congressman

WASHINGTON (AP)—The head of a two-man congressional study mission said Wednesday it may be necessary to warn the Soviet Union that the United States may strike the first big blow if total war threatens over Berlin.

"This is a terrifying contingency, but conceding the first blow with the certain destruction of major cities is even more appalling," Rep. Cornelius E. Gallagher (D-NJ) said in a preliminary report to the House Foreign Affairs Committee.

"Russia served with notice that we will risk war if necessary is the greatest deterrent to war," said Gallagher who served with Rep. Alvin M. Bentley (R-Mich) on the study mission to Berlin.

The committee made public a written statement which it said Gallagher "has personally submitted as the basis for the report which will be formally issued later . . . for himself and Mr. Bentley."

Bentley, however, told a reporter he had seen Gallagher's summary only briefly. He said he did not subscribe to it completely, although agreeing with much of it. Bentley said he is drafting views of his own to go into the formal report to the committee.

Gallagher called for a firm stand, but also a serious effort to negotiate "a new agreement of status for Berlin, a clearly defined set of principles which would do away with the repeated conflicts between East and West."

'First Blow' Warning To Russia Suggested By N.J. Congressman

WASHINGTON (AP)—The head of a two-man congressional study mission said Wednesday it may be necessary to warn the Soviet Union that the United States may strike the first big blow if total war threatens over Berlin.

"This is a terrifying contingency, but conceding the first blow with the certain destruction of major cities is even more appalling," Rep. Cornelius E. Gallagher (D-NJ) said in a preliminary report to the House Foreign Affairs Committee.

"Russia served with notice that we will risk war if necessary is the greatest deterrent to war," said Gallagher who served with Rep. Alvin M. Bentley (R-Mich) on the study mission to Berlin.

The committee made public a written statement which it said Gallagher "has personally submitted as the basis for the report which will be formally issued later . . . for himself and Mr. Bentley."

Bentley, however, told a reporter he had seen Gallagher's summary only briefly. He said he did not subscribe to it completely, although agreeing with much of it. Bentley said he is drafting views of his own to go into the formal report to the committee.

Gallagher called for a firm stand, but also a serious effort to negotiate "a new agreement of status for Berlin, a clearly defined set of principles which would do away with the repeated conflicts between East and West."

Gov. Tawes To Hear Arguments Today On Fair Trade Liquor Law Measure

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—Gov. Tawes will hear arguments Thursday on whether he should sign or veto a bill calling for enforcement of a fair trade liquor law in Maryland.

The governor has arranged an 11 a. m. meeting at his office with opponents and proponents of the bill.

He has had a heavy file of correspondence and telegrams regarding the measure, which requires distilleries to post minimum retail prices with the state comptroller who would enforce them through the state's alcoholic beverages division.

The bill is aimed at curbing operations of cut-rate liquor stores.

Chief backers of the measure appear to be tavern owners. Of the 184 letters and telegrams the governor has received urging him to sign the bill, most have come from tavern operators.

Officials of the Maryland State Licensed Beverage Assn. Inc. and the Metropolitan Baltimore Licensed Beverage Assn. also have requested an opportunity to be heard.

Most of the opposition has come in letters from individual citizens, newspaper editorials, and from officials of the Southern Maryland Chamber of Commerce at Upper Marlboro. They have mainly criticized the bill as a blow at free enterprise and depriving consumers of the opportunity of lowering prices.

The bill was introduced by 21 delegates in the House and states as its main objectives "eliminating price wars which unduly stimulate the sale and consumption of wines and liquors, bringing about the orderly sale and distribution thereof, and fostering and promoting temperance."

It would not apply to Montgomery County, which operates a county dispensary system, or to Harford, Somerset, Wicomico and Worcester counties, which were removed from the bill's provisions at the request of their legislators.

Sponsors of the measure included Dels. Kelley (R-Allegany) and Cohill (D-Washington).

Improvements Program Bill Signed By Tawes

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—Gov. Tawes Wednesday signed into law the state's $14,101,000 capital improvements program, which was held out of a batch of 277 new laws signed Tuesday.

Lloyd L. Simpkins, the governor's executive secretary, said the bill was not in Tuesday's list because the governor had questions to be resolved about several items in the construction program.

The capital improvements program provides for long range construction, land acquisition and repair work at state agencies and institutions. It is financed through bond issues.

Continuing Potomac Survey Supported

WASHINGTON (AP) — Metropolitan Washington's' expanding population was cited Wednesday in support of spending $500,000 in the coming year to continue a pollution and water supply survey of the Potomac River.

Rep. John R. Foley (D-Md) told a House Appropriations Subcommittee that in 1940 there were 967,000 persons living here and in suburban Maryland and Virginia. By April 1, 1960, he said, it is estimated the area population will be 2,133,000.

"Thus," he said, "the principal problems now under these changed population conditions are water supply and pollution control."

Others backing the survey included Rep. Richard Lankford (D-Md).

Boy Burned To Death

BRIDEVILLE, Del. (AP)—Harry Charles Davis IV, 4-year-old son of a prominent Brideville couple, burned to death in a fire which swept their two-story home early Wednesday.

The parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry C. Davis III, said they were unable to reach the back bedroom where the boy was sleeping. A 2-year-old brother, Kelly, escaped injury.

Reddick Seeks Release

BALTIMORE (AP) — Robert H. Reddick asked the Maryland Court of Appeals Wednesday to release him from prison pending an appeal of his conviction to the U. S. Supreme Court.

Reddick, former psychiatrist at Eastern Shore State Hospital, is serving a five-year term in the Maryland Penitentiary for forging a medical certificate.

For completely "happy" feet—take care in shoe selection.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Shoe Troubles

The smart gal, who has her feet on the ground, uses extreme shoe styles for a special treat as she does dessert in her diet.

The very pointed toe and stiletto heeled shoes need to be taken in moderation, say all the foot specialists. Teen-agers, particularly should take them in small doses. Young feet are not yet set in their shape. They are still growing.

Toes are designed to grip the ground. Heels provide the greatest support for the body. When toes are squeezed together in the tapered toe shoes, they lose their gripping action.

It's difficult for young girls to walk on the tapered toe, high thin heel shoes without wobbling. Some walk as if their feet hurt, they probably do. If these girls would walk toward their reflection in a mirror they'd see the pained expression there — the best thing for starting wrinkles on their way.

Too many young feet are developing ingrown toenails, bunions and foot infections, the experts tell us. Also, not only do the young girls have foot trouble, but they throw their posture out of line when they teeter along on these shoes.

One severe critic reports that because of this wobbling gait, a girl put more strain on hips, thighs and ankles. This tends to over-develop these areas. He expresses the rear view of a teenager in high heels as a "rumble seat" effect.

The secret is to buy the pointed toe shoes a half-size larger than the regular shoe size. Also, to discard them when outgrown. Always remember that sizes aren't identical in all lasts, so the size you wear may vary according to the last you select. So it is false pride to insist on taking the same size in every shoe.

Be sure there is plenty of "wiggle room" for the toes. And select them only in supple leathers.

Wear these extreme shoes only for very special occasions. Low or medium heels are much more advisable for all day wear.

For completely "happy" feet—take care in shoe selection.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Shoe Troubles

The smart gal, who has her feet on the ground, uses extreme shoe styles for a special treat as she does dessert in her diet.

The very pointed toe and stiletto heeled shoes need to be taken in moderation, say all the foot specialists. Teen-agers, particularly should take them in small doses. Young feet are not yet set in their shape. They are still growing.

Toes are designed to grip the ground. Heels provide the greatest support for the body. When toes are squeezed together in the tapered toe shoes, they lose their gripping action.

It's difficult for young girls to walk on the tapered toe, high thin heel shoes without wobbling. Some walk as if their feet hurt, they probably do. If these girls would walk toward their reflection in a mirror they'd see the pained expression there — the best thing for starting wrinkles on their way.

Too many young feet are developing ingrown toenails, bunions and foot infections, the experts tell us. Also, not only do the young girls have foot trouble, but they throw their posture out of line when they teeter along on these shoes.

One severe critic reports that because of this wobbling gait, a girl put more strain on hips, thighs and ankles. This tends to over-develop these areas. He expresses the rear view of a teenager in high heels as a "rumble seat" effect.

The secret is to buy the pointed toe shoes a half-size larger than the regular shoe size. Also, to discard them when outgrown. Always remember that sizes aren't identical in all lasts, so the size you wear may vary according to the last you select. So it is false pride to insist on taking the same size in every shoe.

Be sure there is plenty of "wiggle room" for the toes. And select them only in supple leathers.

Wear these extreme shoes only for very special occasions. Low or medium heels are much more advisable for all day wear.

Civil Service Exams Slated Here May 18

The Civil Service Commission of Cumberland Tuesday set the date for examinations for a number of city positions and a promotional examination within the Fire Department.

The Civil Service Board ruled the examination will be held Monday, May 18, at 7:30 p. m. at Fort Hill High School.

There were 11 applications approved for an examination to select an operator for the switchboard at the City Hall. 17 were approved for a fireman's examination, and 18 were approved for a promotional examination for the position of lieutenant in the Fire Department.

The board met with a delegation representing the Police and Firemen's Welfare Association who requested information concerning the formula used in grading promotional examinations within the Fire Department.

The group was informed that the grading formula was based on 60 per cent for the written examinations, 25 per cent on any recommendation by Chief Virgil A. Parker, and 15 per cent on seniority.

Board spokesmen said the delegation had recommendations of their own for a grading formula, but expressed approval of the one in use following the explanation.

Comprising the delegation were Robert Meister and John Carney of the Fire Department and William E. Valentine and John Chaney, Police Department.

Four Boys Killed

TAKASAKI, Japan (UPI) — A baseball cost four 10-year-old boys their lives Tuesday. They chased the ball into a dry river bed and were buried under a collapsing bank.

Frustration

QUEENSBURY, England (UPI) —Michael Brace, 24, did his best to thwart a $56,000 robbery Tuesday at the bank where he is a cashier. But it just wasn't his day.

Brace, his hands and feet bound, wriggled to a telephone and tried, but failed, to dial police with his tongue.

Then he managed to sound the alarm. But birds had built a nest on the bell and it was muffled.

$15,000 Damage Suit Filed

Thelma Slider, RD, McCoole, filed suit yesterday in Circuit Court against the St. George Motor Company, city, for $15,000 damages for injuries she claims she received in a fall on a stairway at the firm's garage November 5, 1957.

Docketed by Jack I. Mullen, her attorney, the declaration states the woman was at the garage to pick up a car which had been repaired and fell on the stairs.

She claims she incurred medical and hospital expenses and lost wages as a result of the mishap.

SRC Awards Three Contracts

Three small bridge contracts in Allegany and Garrett counties have been awarded by the State Roads Commission.

New timber flooring and railing will be placed on the Wiley Ford Bridge across the Potomac River by the Whiting-Turner Construction Company of Baltimore for $24,925.

The State Foundation Company of Manchester, Md., was awarded the project of replacing the curb and bituminous concrete wearing course of the bridge that carries Route 219 across Deep Creek Lake.

The low bid for this work was $8,470. The new deck must be laid before the scheduled painting of the bridge can be started.

The contract for repainting this span and the one that carries Route 40 across Casselman River just east of Grantsville was awarded the Eastwood Painting Company of Baltimore at a low bid of $11,895.

Most of the typhoons that thrash the coasts of Korea and Japan in late summer and early fall originate in the China Sea east of Formosa.

Ted Troxell Reported 'Fair' Following Crash

A 22-year-old local man was seriously injured early yesterday in a one-car accident in Valley Road.

Reported in "fair" condition at Sacred Heart Hospital is Edward (Ted) Troxell, of 24 Washington Street.

Attaches said the young man sustained a possible broken leg, chest injuries and severe lacerations of both legs.

Maryland State Police, who investigated, said the accident occurred at the intersection of Valley Road and Pea Vine Run. Troopers George Robinette and Jack Carey said Troxell was traveling toward Cumberland at the time of the accident.

The Troxell vehicle went out of control at the intersection, struck a bridge abutment and was demolished by the impact. Troxell was thrown into a nearby stream, police said.

The investigating officers said the accident occurred around 3:30 a. m., and that Troxell laid in the stream until 5:40 a. m., when he was able to walk to a nearby home for help. He was taken to the hospital by ambulance.

Police said the young man was riding alone at the time of the accident.

Tawes Signs Bills Affecting Fish And Game Laws

Some bills advantageous to both outdoorsmen and game law enforcement officers were signed into law Tuesday by Gov. J. Millard Tawes.

Year rounding fishing for bass, walleye, pike pickerel, walleye and shad will be in effect after June 1 under the provisions of House Bill 378.

Joseph A. Minke, regional game warden, said this will enable these fishermen who like to go out early in the spring to keep the bass and the other fish mentioned.

Too often those angling for trout and suckers make some nice hauls of bass and others, and have to throw them back in to the streams.

Minke explained that fish can be caught several times and returned to water if an experienced fisherman handles them and removes the hook without damaging the mouth.

He also pointed out that West Virginia fishermen have had this advantage for some time.

Two other new laws will make it handier for the hunter or angler to get their licenses.

House Bill 635 sponsored by Del. Leslie E. Savage of Garrett County and two others provides for the sale of hunting licenses by legitimate business operators, and House Bill 638 covers the sale of fishing permits by those businessmen.

The store wishing to sell hunting licenses must take out not less than 25 county-wide, ten state-wide, and five non-resident permits at a time.

For fishing licenses, they must take out ten residents, five non-residents, ten special Potomac River licenses for District of Columbia people, and ten special Potomac River ones for Virginians and West Virginians, and ten three-day tourist permits.

However, at the end of the year the agent may turn in all unsold licenses to the State Game and Inland Fish Commission for refunds.

Those bills affect those people who live considerable distance from the county seat, or those non-residents who would have to be inconvenienced by having to get to the Court House during its open hours.

Another measure made a law gives game wardens broader enforcement powers. House Bill 462 sponsored by the Allegany County delegates makes it possible for a warden to make arrests and prefer charges in cases where previously others would have to swear out the warrants.

Minke explained that, for instance, when a fisherman or hunter trespassed on posted private land, the landowner would have to prefer charges. Now the warden can make an immediate arrest.

The wardens come in contact with trespassing and violations of the boating laws more frequently than other officers, or the landowners.

Club Sets Meeting

The Methodist Men of First Methodist Church will meet Saturday at 6:30 p. m. at the church. Committee appointments will be made and refreshments served.

Painting, Repair Work Started At City Hall

Work on the painting and repair project at the City Hall began yesterday, according to John J. Long, commissioner of streets and public property.

Commissioner Long said the project calls for the painting of the wood trim on the structure, and the repair and replacement of sills, sashes, windows and doors. All sills on the ground floor of the City Hall will be replaced with concrete, the commissioner stated, explaining that the change is being made in the interests of economy.

Senators Randolph And Chavez Address Hardy County Democrats

MOOREFIELD — Nearly 150 Democrats heard Senators Jennings Randolph of West Virginia and Dennis Chavez of New Mexico speak at a Jackson Day dinner held at the Moorefield Moose Home Saturday night. The banquet was sponsored by the Hardy County Young Democratic Club.

Senators Randolph and Chavez were in session in the US Senate until 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon and were flown here by Dick Benson, Elkins pilot in time for the banquet.

Sen. Randolph reported on Senate Bill 1155, the Kennedy Bill for labor reform. Randolph declared that the Democrats are not 'spenders' but insist that certain legislation is necessary to relieve human want. He said, "the business of running our complex government is a full-time job and not a part-time avocation." He declared that the Democratic program in congress this year is a program of flexibility, fairness and firmness.

Sen. Randolph, who was introduced by State Senate President Ralph J. Bean, toastmaster, in turn introduced Sen. Chavez. The New Mexico Senator warned that unless more Americans exercised their obligation to vote, the country might have a government of minority rule. Sen. Chavez also stated that legislation passed in the current congress would put 1,000 West Virginians to work in the National Forests in the state. He said "our National Forests represent one of our biggest assets."

Guests introduced by Sen. Bean included Judge and Mrs. Harlan M. Calhoun, justice of West Virginia Supreme Court of Appeals, also Judge and Mrs. Chauncy Browning, Secretary of Agriculture John T. Johnson, State Senator Clarence Martin, Mayor P. W. Clarke, Delegate Donald J. Baker, Prosecuting Attorney Lewis Moomau, Assessor Anton Keller, Sheriff T. J. Hawse and Deputy G. S. Mathias, deputy assessor Grant May, Clerk R. M. Gamble and county commissioners.

John Hamilton, president of the Hardy County Young Democratic Club and Senator Bean, chairman of the Democratic Executive Committee, thanked all those attending the banquet and buying tickets. Other officers of the organization are David Garrett, vice-president, Nancy Pat Harman, secretary and Leona Brill, treasurer.

The Women of the Moose served the banquet and the Moorefield High School Band entertained with a pre-banquet concert.

Lloyd Mullin Is Retired

Lloyd Mullin, who will retire today as elevator operator at the Court House, was honored yesterday afternoon by his fellow employes.

Some 67 Court House employes presented Mr. Mullin with an engraved wallet and $25 in cash at a party held on the third floor of the Court House.

Many lawyers and visitors to the Court House stopped by to visit with Mr. Mullin, who will make his last run this afternoon.

The retirement of Mr. Mullin resulted from a ruling by the Allegany County Board of Commissioners that employes who reach their 70th birthday must retire.

Mr. Mullin said he has no plans for the immediate future, but hopes to do a little fishing this summer.

Name Is Clarified In Damage Suit

The Alvin Pearce mentioned in a damage suit filed in Circuit Court Tuesday is not Alvin F. Pearce, of McCoole, but Alvin W. Pearce, who resided recently in Keyser.

Papers in the suit filed in Circuit Court did not give the middle initial of Pearce and the defendant is the son of Alvin F. Pearce. The suit was docketed by Eva D. Wilkes through her mother, Delca M. Wilkes, of McCoole, as the result of injuries received in an auto accident.

Oratory Contestants Named

Students of local and area parochial high schools who will seek honors in an oratory contest being sponsored by Chief Justice Taney General Assembly, Fourth Degree Knights of Columbus, were announced last night by John Coyle, chairman.

The contest will be held at 2 p. m. Sunday, May 10, in Carroll Hall, he said.

Entrants and their topics of discussion include:

James Robinette of LaSalle High School, "Berlin Crisis;;" Miss Eileen Sullivan of Girls Catholic Central High School, "Atheism;" Miss Kathleen Neely, Ursuline Academy, "Christian Personality of Youth."

Miss Wini Rae Fresh of St. Mary's School, "The Christopher —A Light To The World;" and Miss Nancy Miller of St. Peter's School, Westernport, "American Youth Pleads for Preservation of Freedom."

Mr. Coyle said the master of ceremonies for the contest will be Wilbert Logsdon of Mt. Savage.

Judges will be J. William Hunt, city, Mrs. Mary Drum Bollino, of Frostburg, teacher at Beall High School and Miss Mary E. Murray, of Mt. Savage, teacher at Allegany High School.

First prize will be $25 in cash and a medal which will be presented to the winner at the school's graduation exercises. Second prize will be $15, Mr. Coyle said.

THE LITTLE WOMAN

"I don't know a thing about stocks and bonds, but it's a wonderful place to rest after shopping."

Reservoir Will Be Cleaned Tomorrow

The Fort Hill Reservoir located in Constitution Park will be emptied this evening and cleaned up tomorrow morning in preparation for refilling about noon tomorrow or shortly thereafter.

James F. Twigg Jr., chief clerk in the City Water Department, said last night the water supply to customers will not be cut off but the pressure may be affected somewhat.

Seaway Hazard

CORNWALL, Ont. (AP)—Swells from ocean freighters in the newly opened St. Lawrence Seaway were complained of this week as new hazards to waterfront resort people. Residents of Glen Walter, four miles east of here, complained that ships running up to five times as big as those that used to pass have made waves that flattened boathouses, wrecked wharves and swept small boats from their moorings.

The ancient city of Troy was built on the top of eight other cities. The first city dated back to the late Stone Age.

Apple Blossom Festival Opens At Winchester

WINCHESTER, Va. (AP) — Favorable weather was forecast Wednesday for the Shenandoah Valley's annual extravaganza — the Apple Blossom Festival.

A throng of between 175,000 and 200,000 persons is expected for the two-day blowout, which begins officially Thursday.

Elaine Atwood of Anchorage, Alaska, daughter of a newspaper executive and queen of this year's festival, was due to arrive here shortly before noon. She'll take part in the annual apple pie cutting ceremonies and attend a luncheon and dress rehearsal of the festival pageant later in the day.

Movie star Russ Tamblyn arrived Wednesday night. The nimble-footed Tamblyn is marshal of the firemen's parade, on tap Thursday night. Two hundred fifty-seven units will move along the line of march, the largest array in history.

Tamblyn and Miss Atwood attended a reception Wednesday night for festival workers. She will be crowned at 3:30 p. m. (EDT) Thursday on the steps of Handley High School.

In addition to pleasant weather, this year's festival will be graced by an abundance of apple blossoms.

Players Group Has New Play In Rehearsal

Rehearsals are under way for the Algonquin Players' presentation of "Born Yesterday" by Garson Kanin.

The show is scheduled June 11, 12 and 13 at Carroll Hall (LaSalle High School).

Ralph O. Barrick will direct the play while Chad Riley, director of previous Players' productions, will switch to an acting role. He'll play the male lead role of Harry Brock.

Charlotte Bruce will have her first speaking part with the Players as Billie Dawn, female lead.

The business staff already has held a planning meeting at the home of Mrs. Chad Riley, who is business manager.

The Balancing Part Is Tough

• Can Science Find Utopia In A Pill?

Are you worried about tranquilizers? Are you fearful that this new type of wonder drug, which holds great promise in the treatment of mental illness, will be sold over the drug counters in such quantities that Americans will lose their normal aggressiveness and become a bovine, docile race?

Do you shudder at the thought that tranquilizers may become the tool of tyrants ruling over a drugged world of brainwashed slaves? If so, you may need a tranquilizer, but nothing will induce you to take one.

But calm your fears. The answer to the tranquilizer has been found. Its name has the initials T-H-A-M. T-H-A-M (someone else can spell it in full) is a new energizing drug on which testing has not been completed. But wonderful things are hoped from it.

Tested on animals, it virtually eliminates the fatigue factor in bodily activity. If further tests show it to be safe and effective for human beings, every world athletic record should be shattered. On to the three-minute mile!

If human beings cannot take it, animals can, and horses are animals. Maybe the Kentucky Derby will be won in 1:50 flat, if the horses' legs can take that speed. It's against the law to dope horses? Well, people may pass laws against doping animals, but they rarely seem averse to doping themselves.

Boxers who use T-H-A-M can be expected to put the whammy on opponents. Movies may be made about a crooked boxer who steals the T-H-A-M bottle from his adversary's dressing room just before fight time.

If poets can no longer find heaven in a grain of sand, can chemists find utopia in a pill?

Economic Statesmanship

This much is visible to the naked eye: Great Britain and West Germany are fully recovered economically and are strong in world markets: the Common Market is developing among six nations of Europe; the Free Market, including Commonwealth countries, is making some progress; Soviet Russia is becoming a mercantile country using capitalistic economics for socialist ends.

What is happening to the United States in the economic field? It is becoming increasingly clear that the United States has outpriced itself in all commodities. The theory of American industrial output, particularly in the consumer goods market, has been that the United States, by mass production, could pay higher wages, keep prices down and maintain a high standard of living. When that formula ceases to be correct, the economy of the United States is in difficulty. This is most apparent in the world market for automobiles into which good cars, well engineered but lower priced, are beginning to hurt the American-made car even in the American market. All sorts of explanations are given but the most correct is undoubtedly that the American car has outpriced itself.

When does a commodity outprice itself? Obviously when buyers' resistance asserts itself. It is as simple as that. The consumer determines the value of any commodity. Circumstances often assist the consumer. For instance women turned from silk stockings to the inferior rayon stocking during World War II. They could not get silk, but nylon also was not available. When the war was over, women did not return to silk but stayed with nylon. The standard stocking in the Western world is nylon, which is a durable commodity fairly priced.

But anybody can make nylon and it will all be of approximately the same quality. The question then becomes price. In the age of automatic machinery, the two principal factors in price are wages and taxes. Wages relate to the cost of living. In an inflationary economy wages are absurdly high and send costs rocketing.

Mass production by automatic machinery is adopted to reduce the labor cost, but it is unsound socially for a country to have a large unemployed population dependent upon state charity for support. This not only increases the tax burden of those who pay taxes but it develops discontent, anxiety, political demagoguery and abnormal conditions in the home. While the slogan, machines make jobs, may be justified by long term economic history, it does not serve immediately, for those who are out of jobs know it and if their numbers are sufficiently large, in addition to being a social problem, they become a political menace, in the sense that they vote not with regard to the welfare of the country but solely for what they believe might be their private advantage. Thus, the political facade of the country deteriorates. Unemployment is a horrible social disease.

The American problem then is to find a price that will defend the American market from invasion or adopt a protective tariff or find a price that will keep our goods competitive in foreign markets. The first task in the handling of this problem is to keep the American dollar level. It has been supported by a 25 per cent gold reserve—the so-called Fort Knox depository. All sorts of book-keeping are done these days in an attempt to prove that the $20,000,000,000 in gold is that reserve.

But how much of that deposit should be on the liability side of the ledger? All that is earmarked for other countries! The fact is that based on a 1940 dollar, the 1959 dollar is worth about 48 cents in wages and in purchasing power. Mobile American capital is leaving the United States in many different ways, either by investment in foreign businesses, by the purchase of foreign securities or by deposits in Swiss, Dutch, Nassau and other foreign banks. All these become factors in the outpricing of the American commodity in world markets.

What is happening to our economy requires a statesmanly approach. It requires honesty of investigation and honesty of statement because the picture is not too pleasant in the sense that economically we are becoming isolated, more isolated than the America Firsters of pre-World War II days advocated. We have expended much of our wealth to avert isolation. What effect will economic isolation have upon our general status?

Congressman Flood Finally Wins A Hat From Secretary McElroy

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—Pennsylvania's effervescent Congressman Dan Flood collected a new hat the other day from Secretary of Defense Neil McElroy.

Flood had wagered a hat last summer that McElroy wouldn't make good his claim that our 1,500-mile Thor missiles would be operational in Britain by Christmas.

After the Christmas holidays, Flood telephoned the Secretary of Defense and demanded his hat.

"Thors have been deployed in Britain," protested McElroy.

"That wasn't the bet," Flood retorted. "The missiles were supposed to be operational."

"I can't give you a hat," the Secretary hedged. "The Russians might learn about it, then they would know the missiles aren't operational yet."

After the Thors became operational, McElroy happened to be strolling by a hat store in Tucson, Ariz. He spotted a hat that seemed to go with Flood's waxed mustache.

In mock concern over security, McElroy finally presented the hat to Flood behind closed doors.

"I want all present to witness that I am not admitting I owe him the hat," the Secretary announced solemnly. "I am giving it to him because I walked by a store in Tucson, saw the hat, and thought it would look good on Flood."

Another Missile Lag

It now looks as if the Navy's Polaris missiles won't be ready on schedule to install in the atomic submarines that are supposed to carry them.

The Polaris program has slipped farther behind schedule than any other missile. Although over a dozen experimental models should have been fired by now, only five have actually been tested.

Of these, only the fifth was announced as "successful." This was stretching the truth, since it was supposed to go 750 miles but plopped into the Atlantic after traveling only 350 miles.

Eventually, the Polaris should have a range of 1,200 miles. It will also be fired underwater from submerged subs.

"Last Straws Committee"

Robert Huntoon, Deputy Director of the Bureau of Standards, flatly denies that his boss, Adm. Lewis Strauss, the Secretary of Commerce, was responsible for getting himself invited to be honor guest at the dinner of the American Physical Society this week.

"We felt that the views of the Secretary of Commerce would be helpful to members of the group," Huntoon protested vigorously when asked whether his chief, Strauss, had inspired the invitation. "Aside from that I cannot comment."

Meanwhile William Higinbotham, head of the "Last Straws Committee," a group of scientists who resent the dinner invitation to Strauss, said that postcards were pouring in by the thousands, so many that they had not been tabulated. However, the great preponderance seemed to be opposed to the AEC chairman who purged Dr. Robert Oppenheimer from government.

Chicago Tribune's War

It took the Chicago Tribune to dramatically publicize the most important issue worrying the American people — inflation. Illinois Congressmen are now feeling the effects.

Ches. Campbell, president of the Tribune, got to thinking about zooming prices, increasing wages together with the lessened value of insurance, government bonds, and old-age pensions. He decided to do something about it. Result: The Tribune has been publishing each day three boxes which the reader can cut out and send to his Congressman and his two Senators.

As a result readers around Chicago have been clipping anti-inflation messages from the Tribune and sending them to their Senators and Congressmen at the rate of 10,000 a day.

The campaign has now spread to the New York Daily News and the Chicago American. Politicians who are worrying about the Berlin crisis, the labor bill, and dredging the Delaware River channel for the benefit of U.S. Steel, might well give a little pause to this the most important issue facing the nation—inflation.

Big Steel Meeting

The Senate Anti-Monopoly Committee and the House Small Business Committee are keeping an eye on secret meetings in New York this week between steel moguls and representatives of the biggest scrap-iron company — Luria Brothers. They are hatching a chain-store scrap setup by which many of the independent scrap-iron dealers could be squeezed out.

Amazing fact is that the steel moguls are meeting, despite proceedings by the Federal Trade Commission to break up the scrapiron monopoly. Though the molasses-moving commission had promised a report on the scrap-iron monopoly in March, it has now postponed publication until June 30. The survey has been under way for four years.

Meanwhile Texas Congressman Wright Patman's Small Business Committee has issued a scorching report against Luria Brothers. Despite this, plans are under way in New York to set up a chain of 18 big scrapyards to be operated by Luria in conjunction with Bethlehem and other steel companies.

Professor Wechsler And The Supreme Court

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — The myth is widespread that anyone who criticizes the decisions of the Supreme Court of the United States is either a "segregationists" or is trying to "undermine" our judicial system. So, when a distinguished professor at Columbia University Law School, who himself favors integration in the public schools, makes a speech in criticism of decisions of the highest court in the land, one wonders why it was not widely reported.

Professor Herbert Wechsler holds the professorship in constitutional law which is named in memory of the late Supreme Court Justice Harlan Fiske Stone. When Professor Wechsler delivered the annual Oliver Wendell Holmes lecture at Harvard University Law School recently, he questioned very sharply the grounds upon which the Supreme Court had decided the famous "desegregation" cases in 1954.

He criticized the Supreme Court also for its subsequent "per curiam" rulings on segregation problems. These are decisions handed down by the whole court but no individual opinions are issued to the public. Professor Wechsler said:

"The original opinion (by the Supreme Court in 1954), you recall, was firmly focused on state segregation in the public schools, its reasoning accorded import to the nature of the educational process, and its conclusion was that separate educational facilities are 'inherently unequal.'

"What shall we think then of the court's extension of the ruling to other public facilities, such as public transportation, parks, golf courses, bath houses and beaches which no one is obliged to use — all by 'per curiam' decisions? That these situations present a weaker case against state segregation is not, of course, what I am saying. I am saying that the question whether it is stronger, weaker or of equal weight appears to me to call for principled decision. I do not know and I submit you cannot know whether the 'per curiam' affirmance in the Dawson case — public bath houses and beaches — embraced the broad opinion of the circuit court that all state-enforced racial segregation is invalid or approved only its immediate result and, if the latter, on what ground."

Professor Wechsler went on to say that he is not troubled by the departure from earlier decisions, because he stands with the "long tradition of the court that previous decisions always must be subject to re-examination when a case against their reasoning is made." He then refers to the 1954 "desegregation" opinion as follows:

"The problem inheres strictly in the reasoning of the opinion, an opinion which is often read with less fidelity by those who praise it than by those by whom it is condemned. The court did not declare, as many wish it had, that the Fourteenth Amendment forbids all racial lines in legislation, though subsequent 'per curiam' decisions may, as I have said, now go that far.

"Rather, as Judge Learned Hand observed, the separate-but-equal formula was not overruled 'in form' but was held to have 'no place' in public education on the ground that segregated schools are 'inherently unequal,' with deleterious effects upon the colored children in implying their inferiority, effects which retard their educational and mental development. So, indeed, the district court had found as a fact in the Kansas case, a finding which the Supreme Court embraced, vouching some further 'modern authority' to warranty.

"Does the validity of the decision turn then on the sufficiency of evidence or of judicial notice to sustain a finding that the separation harms the Negro children who may be involved?

"There were, indeed, some witnesses who expressed that opinion in the Kansas case, as there were also witnesses in the Virginia case, including Professor Garrett of Columbia, whose view was to the contrary.

"Much depended on the question that the witness had in mind which rarely was explicit. Was he comparing the position of the Negro child in a segregated school with his position in an integrated school where he was happily accepted and regarded by the whites; or was he comparing his position under separation with that under integration where the whites were hostile to his presence and found ways to make their feelings known?

"And if the harm that segregation worked was relevant, what of the benefits that it entailed: sense of security, the absence of hostility? Were they irrelevant? Moreover, was the finding in Topeka, Kansas, applicable without more to Clarendon County, South Carolina, with 2,799 colored students and only 295 whites? Suppose that more Negroes in a community preferred separation than opposed it? Would that be relevant to whether they were hurt or aided by segregation as opposed to integration? Their fates would be governed by the change of system quite as fully as that of the students who complained.

"I find it hard to think the judgment really turned upon the facts. Rather, it seems to me, it must have rested in the view that racial segregation is, in principle, a denial of equality to the minority against whom it is directed, that is, the group that is not dominant politically and, therefore, does not make the choice involved. . . .

"For me, the question posed by state-enforced segregation is not one of discrimination at all. Its human and its constitutional dimension lies entirely elsewhere, in the denial by the state of freedom to associate, a denial that impinges equally on any groups or races that may be involved."

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

Don't let the quiet fool you. The Battle of the Budget is still raging between the White House and the Democratic - controlled Congress.

Presdent Eisenhower and his aides are as determined as ever to hold the government-spending line, if possible. Democrats are just as determined to pass what they consider needed legislation, whether or not it puts government spending in the red.

However, there has been a marked shift in tactics on the part of the Democrats. When the present session of Congress began they were all for jamming through a raft of legislation dealing with housing, airport construction, aid to depressed areas and school construction and either force President Eisenhower to approve them or take the onus publicly for vetoing them.

As Mr. Eisenhower became more vocal and more positive in his insistence on a balanced budget, Democratic leaders detected rising public approval for his stand, mainly because of general fears of further inflation.

It is largely because of this shift of public sentiment that some huge Senate-approved measures are lying dormant in the House, or are being pared down drastically. True, all of the measures still call for spending considerably greater than recommended by Eisenhower in his budget, but they are far below amounts recommended by the Senate.

Rep. Oren Harris of Arkansas, found a letter on his desk the other day addressed to Ison Hair, Washington, D. C. It came from a writer in Kentucky, and was replete with numerous other misspellings.

Harris called the White House and said he was forwarding the letter to the President. "I don't see how I got it in the first place," Harris told a White House aide. "It seems perfectly clear it was addressed to your boss."

False Accounting

By Joseph Alsop

WASHINGTON

Last week, in the semi-final stage of the Berlin crisis the Secretary of Defense of the United States offered the country an accounting. It was a false accounting.

That does not mean that Neil McElroy is a dishonest man. In the stock market boom of the late '20s, the vision of many honest men was irresistibly deformed by the atmosphere of the times. Their eyes were blind to debits and credulous towards credits; and so these wholly honest men published wholly misleading balance sheets. In the same fashion, in the atmosphere generated by the President's budget-mania, blindness to debits and extreme credulity towards credit now prevail in the Pentagon.

The McElroy balance sheet, offered to the American Association of Newspaper Publishers, was first of all misleading about the priorities governing the current defense budget. "National security," he declared, had been the only test; and he denied that the defense program had been "determined by budgetary considerations." He forgot to relate the famous episode in the National Security Council, when Under Secretary of Defense Donald Quarles timidly urged that the national security demanded larger defense investments.

The President responded with the famous flush-faced anger which so frightens his subordinates — but markedly fails to intimidate the enemies of this republic. Budget-balancing, he told Quarles, "was national security." That settled the matter.

Worse still, the McElroy balance sheet was misleading about the condition of the nuclear deterrent, on which the whole Western strategic concept entirely depends. Speaking primarily of the Strategic Air Command, McElroy smoothly promised that "the bomber forces will be kept in any status of alert required to insure their ability to deliver unacceptable punishment to any nation which might attack us."

In contrast, the brilliant Strategic Air Commander, Gen. Thomas Power, has given sworn testimony that in its present alert status, SAC could conceivably be "knocked out." With no missile-seeing radars as yet in position, SAC has zero warning against a Soviet missile strike. With zero warning, SAC has only been authorized to maintain a 15-minute alert. Such an alert is utterly valueless if the Soviets simply acquire a few hundred more long range missiles than the national intelligence estimates allow. When and if this happens, unless SAC has meanwhile been authorized to maintain an air-borne alert, it will in fact be possible to "knock out" SAC.

Worst of all, the McElroy accounting was shockingly misleading on the key matter of the Soviet missile capability. Our own admittedly imperfect long range missile, the Atlas, now has a claimed "circular probable error" of one mile. In other words, it can be relied on to hit within one mile of its target. The Soviets have been in the missile business much longer than we have, and they have worked much harder at it. Thus their long range missile must be expected to be at least as good as the Atlas.

If that is so, they need a very small number of missiles indeed — in the extremely low hundreds — to knock out both SAC and the United States in our present completely "soft" condition of no warning, no air-borne alert, and no counter-striking weapons in "hard" emplacements. The current Atlas output of six missiles per month could be immediately raised to eighteen per month, and it could be quite rapidly raised to twenty-three per month. By the measuring stick of this American capability, an all-out Soviet production effort could give the Kremlin its long range missile requirement in a frightening small number of months.

The national intelligence estimates, perhaps reflecting the present blue sky atmosphere of the Pentagon, do not concede the Soviets a fatally dangerous missile capability at any early date. McElroy's assertions were squarely based upon the estimates. But the central point that McElroy omitted concerned these estimates. We are now risking the whole future of this country on the single assumption that the vast and secret Soviet tyranny has not managed to produce a few hundred weapons, which the Kremlin has long been working all-out to produce. This is like a corporation assuming its liabilities are only $100,000, when the liabilities may well be $100,000,000.

What the intelligence estimators call a "strategic warning" has already been given to us, in the form of the Berlin crisis, which this reporter is now going abroad to cover on the spot. The conviction of the masters of the Kremlin, that they have achieved a great upset of the world balance of military power, is the obvious reason why they are threatening Berlin at this time. You may believe, as this reporter happens to believe, that there is no immediate danger of war. But if McElroy-style accounting continues to prevail, and nothing more is done to redress the military balance, the future danger may be very great indeed.

Arteriosclerosis Is Painless But Dangerous

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

No one likes to develop hardening of the arteries or other signs of getting old. What we see in the mirror cannot be disregarded nor can the slowing up processes that occur with each succeeding decade.

Is there any way to tell whether arteriosclerosis is progressing? This is difficult because the condition may exist for decades without manifestations. In this respect, hardening of the arteries resembles rusting of the pipes in the plumbing system of a home or an apartment. Corrosion might be going on for years but no one knows the difference so long as the water flows freely and the pipes do not spring a leak.

Arteriosclerosis in itself is a painless process. Should it become severe, blood vessels may rupture (hemorrhage) or a clot may form (thromboosis), blocking the flow of blood. The organ that is robbed of blood through hemorrhage or thrombosis will show symptoms.

The thrombosed coronary artery is a common cause of heart attacks, whereas a ruptured cerebral vessel produces apoplexy Cramping of the calf muscle on walking is traceable to hardening of the leg arteries in more than 90 per cent of all such cases. Since we know that most heart attacks, strokes, and impaired circulation are due to arteriosclerosis, we use these diseases as evidence of the existence of hardened arteries.

Are there other ways to recognize the disorder? The vessels of the eyes are visible via the ophthalmoscope. Special X-rays also are useful in diagnosis. An increase in the concentration of certain fatty molecules (cholesterol) in the blood offers presumptive evidence of arteriosclerosis. (Dr. Van Dellen will send additional information on cholesterol in foods, or on other medical subjects upon request. Enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your letter to this newspaper). This is why many physicians recommend the low fat diet for persons recovering from heart attacks.

The latest clue may be the age when reading glasses are first used. Two California public health physicians found that a higher percentage of men who needed bi-focals before age 45 developed heart attacks sooner than did a control group.

NITROGEN POISONING

D. M. writes: What is silo disease?

REPLY

Nitrogen dioxide poisoning. This gas is generated by fermenting silage. The farmer is poisoned when he stands in the silo where ventilation is poor. It is more likely to occur when the weather is warm and the corn is green.

PERFORATED DRUM

T. V. writes: What is the cause of a hole in the eardrum?

REPLY

Inflammation of the middle ear (otitis media) is the most common cause. Pus accumulates and when pressure within the ear gets high enough, the drum gives way so that purulent material can escape.

TOMORROW: Extremes of depression and excitement.

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

Judge Blank looked severely at the formidable female before the bar and said, "It is alleged in this complaint that you've been giving your husband a rather bad time of it lately."

"Nonsense, Your Honor," answered the giantess heatedly. "You know how people exaggerate. For instance, I shot at him a couple of times last night, but that's as far as it went."

W. C. Durant, business genius criedited with founding General Motors, once had a hard time promoting enough capital for a small plant intended to produce a new model. A suspicious banker pored over the blueprints, and found one plot unmarked. Durant explained it was to be reserved for employes' cars. "Nonsense!" snorted the banker. "Workmen with their own automobiles! We don't do business with a man who entertains such ridiculous notions." Fortunately Durant raised the money elsewhere.

American tourists spent better than $2 billion abroad last year, the Department of Commerce figures. Now that's the kind of foreign aid we agree to—where, at least, we get some fun out of it!

Also in 1958 U. S. folk, touring their own country, spent more than $15 billion over here. Welcome strangers!

Jules Verne, the noted French novelist and science fiction writer, predicted television 50 years before it was invented. Pretty clever—but how come he didn't warn us about those TV commercials?

"I want all present to witness that I am not admitting I owe him the hat," the Secretary announced solemnly. "I am giving it to him because I walked by a store in Tucson, saw the hat, and thought it would look good on Flood."

Another Missile Lag

It now looks as if the Navy's Polaris missiles won't be ready on schedule to install in the atomic submarines that are supposed to carry them.

The Polaris program has slipped farther behind schedule than any other missile. Although over a dozen experimental models should have been fired by now, only five have actually been tested.

Of these, only the fifth was announced as "successful." This was stretching the truth, since it was supposed to go 750 miles but plopped into the Atlantic after traveling only 350 miles.

Eventually, the Polaris should have a range of 1,200 miles. It will also be fired underwater from submerged subs.

"Last Straws Committee"

Robert Huntoon, Deputy Director of the Bureau of Standards, flatly denies that his boss, Adm. Lewis Strauss, the Secretary of Commerce, was responsible for getting himself invited to be honor guest at the dinner of the American Physical Society this week.

"We felt that the views of the Secretary of Commerce would be helpful to members of the group," Huntoon protested vigorously when asked whether his chief, Strauss, had inspired the invitation. "Aside from that I cannot comment."

Meanwhile William Higinbotham, head of the "Last Straws Committee," a group of scientists who resent the dinner invitation to Strauss, said that postcards were pouring in by the thousands, so many that they had not been tabulated. However, the great preponderance seemed to be opposed to the AEC chairman who purged Dr. Robert Oppenheimer from government.

Chicago Tribune's War

It took the Chicago Tribune to dramatically publicize the most important issue worrying the American people—inflation. Illinois Congressmen are now feeling the effects.

Ches. Campbell, president of the Tribune, got to thinking about zooming prices, increasing wages together with the lessened value of insurance, government bonds, and old-age pensions. He decided to do something about it. Result: The Tribune has been publishing each day three boxes which the reader can cut out and send to his Congressman and his two Senators.

As a result readers around Chicago have been clipping anti-inflation messages from the Tribune and sending them to their Senators and Congressmen at the rate of 10,000 a day.

The campaign has now spread to the New York Daily News and the Chicago American. Politicians who are worrying about the Berlin crisis, the labor bill, and dredging the Delaware River channel for the benefit of U.S. Steel, might well give a little pause to this the most important issue facing the nation—inflation.

Big Steel Meeting

The Senate Anti-Monopoly Committee and the House Small Business Committee are keeping an eye on secret meetings in New York this week between steel moguls and representatives of the biggest scrap-iron company — Luria Brothers. They are hatching a chain-store scrap setup by which many of the independent scrap-iron dealers could be squeezed out.

Amazing fact is that the steel moguls are meeting, despite proceedings by the Federal Trade Commission to break up the scrapiron monopoly. Though the molasses-moving commission had promised a report on the scrap-iron monopoly in March, it has now postponed publication until June 30. The survey has been under way for four years.

Meanwhile Texas Congressman Wright Patman's Small Business Committee has issued a scorching report against Luria Brothers. Despite this, plans are under way in New York to set up a chain of 18 big scrapyards to be operated by Luria in conjunction with Bethlehem and other steel companies.

Professor Wechsler And The Supreme Court

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — The myth is widespread that anyone who criticizes the decisions of the Supreme Court of the United States is either a "segregationists" or is trying to "undermine" our judicial system. So, when a distinguished professor at Columbia University Law School, who himself favors integration in the public schools, makes a speech in criticism of decisions of the highest court in the land, one wonders why it was not widely reported.

Professor Herbert Wechsler holds the professorship in constitutional law which is named in memory of the late Supreme Court Justice Harlan Fiske Stone. When Professor Wechsler delivered the annual Oliver Wendell Holmes lecture at Harvard University Law School recently, he questioned very sharply the grounds upon which the Supreme Court had decided the famous "desegregation" cases in 1954.

He criticized the Supreme Court also for its subsequent "per curiam" rulings on segregation problems. These are decisions handed down by the whole court but no individual opinions are issued to the public. Professor Wechsler said:

"The original opinion (by the Supreme Court in 1954), you recall, was firmly focused on state segregation in the public schools, its reasoning accorded import to the nature of the educational process, and its conclusion was that separate educational facilities are 'inherently unequal.'

"What shall we think then of the court's extension of the ruling to other public facilities, such as public transportation, parks, golf courses, bath houses and beaches which no one is obliged to use — all by 'per curiam' decisions? That these situations present a weaker case against state segregation is not, of course, what I am saying. I am saying that the question whether it is stronger, weaker or of equal weight appears to me to call for principled decision. I do not know and I submit you cannot know whether the 'per curiam' affirmance in the Dawson case — public bath houses and beaches — embraced the broad opinion of the circuit court that all state-enforced racial segregation is invalid or approved only its immediate result and, if the latter, on what ground."

Professor Wechsler went on to say that he is not troubled by the departure from earlier decisions, because he stands with the "long tradition of the court that previous decisions always must be subject to re-examination when a case against their reasoning is made." He then refers to the 1954 "desegregation" opinion as follows:

"The problem inheres strictly in the reasoning of the opinion, an opinion which is often read with less fidelity by those who praise it than by those by whom it is condemned. The court did not declare, as many wish it had, that the Fourteenth Amendment forbids all racial lines in legislation, though subsequent 'per curiam' decisions may, as I have said, now go that far.

"Rather, as Judge Learned Hand observed, the separate-but-equal formula was not overruled 'in form' but was held to have 'no place' in public education on the ground that segregated schools are 'inherently unequal,' with deleterious effects upon the colored children in implying their inferiority, effects which retard their educational and mental development. So, indeed, the district court had found as a fact in the Kansas case, a finding which the Supreme Court embraced, vouching some further 'modern authority' to warranty.

"Does the validity of the decision turn then on the sufficiency of evidence or of judicial notice to sustain a finding that the separation harms the Negro children who may be involved?

"There were, indeed, some witnesses who expressed that opinion in the Kansas case, as there were also witnesses in the Virginia case, including Professor Garrett of Columbia, whose view was to the contrary.

"Much depended on the question that the witness had in mind which rarely was explicit. Was he comparing the position of the Negro child in a segregated school with his position in an integrated school where he was happily accepted and regarded by the whites; or was he comparing his position under separation with that under integration where the whites were hostile to his presence and found ways to make their feelings known?

"And if the harm that segregation worked was relevant, what of the benefits that it entailed: sense of security, the absence of hostility? Were they irrelevant? Moreover, was the finding in Topeka, Kansas, applicable without more to Clarendon County, South Carolina, with 2,799 colored students and only 295 whites? Suppose that more Negroes in a community preferred separation than opposed it? Would that be relevant to whether they were hurt or aided by segregation as opposed to integration? Their fates would be governed by the change of system quite as fully as that of the students who complained.

"I find it hard to think the judgment really turned upon the facts. Rather, it seems to me, it must have rested in the view that racial segregation is, in principle, a denial of equality to the minority against whom it is directed, that is, the group that is not dominant politically and, therefore, does not make the choice involved. . . .

"For me, the question posed by state-enforced segregation is not one of discrimination at all. Its human and its constitutional dimension lies entirely elsewhere, in the denial by the state of freedom to associate, a denial that impinges equally on any groups or races that may be involved."

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

Don't let the quiet fool you. The Battle of the Budget is still raging between the White House and the Democratic-controlled Congress.

Presdent Eisenhower and his aides are as determined as ever to hold the government-spending line, if possible. Democrats are just as determined to pass what they consider needed legislation, whether or not it puts government spending in the red.

However, there has been a marked shift in tactics on the part of the Democrats. When the present session of Congress began they were all for jamming through a raft of legislation dealing with housing, airport construction, aid to depressed areas and school construction and either force President Eisenhower to approve them or take the onus publicly for vetoing them.

As Mr. Eisenhower became more vocal and more positive in his insistence on a balanced budget, Democratic leaders detected rising public approval for his stand, mainly because of general fears of further inflation.

It is largely because of this shift of public sentiment that some huge Senate-approved measures are lying dormant in the House, or are being pared down drastically. True, all of the measures still call for spending considerably greater than recommended by Eisenhower in his budget, but they are far below amounts recommended by the Senate.

Rep. Oren Harris of Arkansas, found a letter on his desk the other day addressed to Ison Hair, Washington, D. C. It came from a writer in Kentucky, and was replete with numerous other misspellings.

Harris called the White House and said he was forwarding the letter to the President. "I don't see how I got it in the first place," Harris told a White House aide. "It seems perfectly clear it was addressed to your boss."

False Accounting

By Joseph Alsop

WASHINGTON

Last week, in the semi-final stage of the Berlin crisis the Secretary of Defense of the United States offered the country an accounting. It was a false accounting.

That does not mean that Neil McElroy is a dishonect man. In the stock market boom of the late '20s, the vision of many honest men was irresistibly deformed by the atmosphere of the times. Their eyes were blind to debits and credulous towards credits; and so these wholly honest men published wholly misleading balance sheets. In the same fashion, in the atmosphere generated by the President's budget-mania, blindness to debits and extreme credulity towards credit now prevail in the Pentagon.

The McElroy balance sheet, offered to the American Association of Newspaper Publishers, was first of all misleading about the priorities governing the current defense budget. "National security," he declared, had been the only test; and he denied that the defense program had been "determined by budgetary considerations." He forgot to relate the famous episode in the National Security Council, when Under Secretary of Defense Donald Quarles timidly urged that the national security demanded larger defense investments.

The President responded with the famous flush-faced anger which so frightens his subordinates — but markedly fails to intimidate the enemies of this republic. Budget-balancing, he told Quarles, "was national security." That settled the matter.

Worse still, the McElroy balance sheet was misleading about the condition of the nuclear deterrent, on which the whole Western strategic concept entirely depends. Speaking primarily of the Strategic Air Command, McElroy smoothly promised that "the bomber forces will be kept in any status of alert required to insure their ability to deliver unacceptable punishment to any nation which might attack us."

In contrast, the brilliant Strategic Air Commander, Gen. Thomas Power, has given sworn testimony that in its present alert status, SAC could conceivably be "knocked out." With no missile-seeing radars as yet in position, SAC has zero warning against a Soviet missile strike. With zero warning, SAC has only been authorized to maintain a 15-minute alert. Such an alert is utterly valueless if the Soviets simply acquire a few hundred more long range missiles than the national intelligence estimates allow. When and if this happens, unless SAC has meanwhile been authorized to maintain an air-borne alert, it will in fact be possible to "knock out" SAC.

Worst of all, the McElroy accounting was shockingly misleading on the key matter of the Soviet missile capability. Our own admittedly imperfect long range missile, the Atlas, now has a claimed "circular probable error" of one mile. In other words, it can be relied on to hit within one mile of its target. The Soviets have been in the missile business much longer than we have, and they have worked much harder at it. Thus their long range missile must be expected to be at least as good as the Atlas.

If that is so, they need a very small number of missiles indeed — in the extremely low hundreds — to knock out both SAC and the United States in our present completely "soft" condition of no warning, no air-borne alert, and no counter-striking weapons in "hard" emplacements. The current Atlas output of six missiles per month could be immediately raised to eighteen per month, and it could be quite rapidly raised to twenty-three per month. By the measuring stick of this American capability, an all-out Soviet production effort could give the Kremlin its long range missile requirement in a frightening small number of months.

The national intelligence estimates, perhaps reflecting the present blue sky atmosphere of the Pentagon, do not concede the Soviets a fatally dangerous missile capability at any early date. McElroy's assertions were squarely based upon the estimates. But the central point that McElroy omitted concerned these estimates. We are now risking the whole future of this country on the single assumption that the vast and secret Soviet tyranny has not managed to produce a few hundred weapons, which the Kremlin has long been working all-out to produce. This is like a corporation assuming its liabilities are only $100,000, when the liabilities may well be $100,000,000.

What the intelligence estimators call a "strategic warning" has already been given to us, in the form of the Berlin crisis, which this reporter is now going abroad to cover on the spot. The conviction of the masters of the Kremlin, that they have achieved a great upset of the world balance of military power, is the obvious reason why they are threatening Berlin at this time. You may believe, as this reporter happens to believe, that there is no immediate danger of war. But if McElroy-style accounting continues to prevail, and nothing more is done to redress the military balance, the future danger may be very great indeed.

Arteriosclerosis Is Painless But Dangerous

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

No one likes to develop hardening of the arteries or other signs of getting old. What we see in the mirror cannot be disregarded nor can the slowing up processes that occur with each succeeding decade.

Is there any way to tell whether arteriosclerosis is progressing? This is difficult because the condition may exist for decades without manifestations. In this respect, hardening of the arteries resembles rusting of the pipes in the plumbing system of a home or an apartment. Corrosion might be going on for years but no one knows the difference so long as the water flows freely and the pipes do not spring a leak.

Arteriosclerosis in itself is a painless process. Should it become severe, blood vessels may rupture (hemorrhage) or a clot may form (thromboosis), blocking the flow of blood. The organ that is robbed of blood through hemorrhage or thrombosis will show symptoms.

The thrombosed coronary artery is a common cause of heart attacks, whereas a ruptured cerebral vessel produces apoplexy Cramping of the calf muscle on walking is traceable to hardening of the leg arteries in more than 90 per cent of all such cases. Since we know that most heart attacks, strokes, and impaired circulation are due to arteriosclerosis, we use these diseases as evidence of the existence of hardened arteries.

Are there other ways to recognize the disorder? The vessels of the eyes are visible via the ophthalmoscope. Special X-rays also are useful in diagnosis. An increase in the concentration of certain fatty molecules (cholesterol) in the blood offers presumptive evidence of arteriosclerosis. (Dr. Van Dellen will send additional information on cholesterol in foods, or on other medical subjects upon request. Enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your letter to this newspaper). This is why many physicians recommend the low fat diet for persons recovering from heart attacks.

The latest clue may be the age when reading glasses are first used. Two California public health physicians found that a higher percentage of men who needed bi-focals before age 45 developed heart attacks sooner than did a control group.

NITROGEN POISONING

D. M. writes: What is silo disease?

REPLY

Nitrogen dioxide poisoning. This gas is generated by fermenting silage. The farmer is poisoned when he stands in the silo where ventilation is poor. It is more likely to occur when the weather is warm and the corn is green.

PERFORATED DRUM

T. V. writes: What is the cause of a hole in the eardrum?

REPLY

Inflammation of the middle ear (otitis media) is the most common cause. Pus accumulates and when pressure within the ear gets high enough, the drum gives way so that purulent material can escape.

TOMORROW: Extremes of depression and excitement.

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

Judge Blank looked severely at the formidable female before the bar and said, "It is alleged in this complaint that you've been giving your husband a rather bad time of it lately."

"Nonsense, Your Honor," answered the giantess heatedly. "You know how people exaggerate. For instance, I shot at him a couple of times last night, but that's as far as it went."

W. C. Durant, business genius criedited with founding General Motors, once had a hard time promoting enough capital for a small plant intended to produce a new model. A suspicious banker pored over the blueprints, and found one plot unmarked. Durant explained it was to be reserved for employes' cars. "Nonsense!" snorted the banker. "Workmen with their own automobiles! We don't do business with a man who entertains such ridiculous notions." Fortunately Durant raised the money elsewhere.

You're Telling Me

American tourists spent better than $2 billion abroad last year, the Department of Commerce figures. Now that's the kind of foreign aid we agree to—where, at least, we get some fun out of it!

Also in 1958 U. S. folk, touring their own country, spent more than $15 billion over here. Welcome strangers!

Jules Verne, the noted French novelist and science fiction writer, predicted television 50 years before it was invented. Pretty clever—but how come he didn't warn us about those TV commercials?

"Visit to a Small Planet" is his last picture with Hal Wallis, and the first one on his own schedule is "Like Father, Like Son" which Frank Tashlin will direct. The script is written and he plans to start in October.

Bob Hope, who only had 30 per cent vision when he returned home from his overseas junket after Christmas, now has 75 per cent. However, his doctor has told him he cannot do the Emmy aacademy show because he feels his appearance on Dean Martin's TV show May 3, plus Bob's own last TV show on May 15 would be too much for him. The Emmy show is May 6.

Bob is so energetic, he finds it very hard to obey the doctor's orders when he requires so much inactivity.

I'd like to put a little bet on this young talent that he'll crowd them in as he has done wherever he's taken his act.

Bob Hope, who only had 30 per cent vision when he returned home from his overseas junket after Christmas, now has 75 per cent. However, his doctor has told him he cannot do the Emmy aacademy show because he feels his appearance on Dean Martin's TV show May 3, plus Bob's own last TV show on May 15 would be too much for him. The Emmy show is May 6.

Bob is so energetic, he finds it very hard to obey the doctor's orders when he requires so much inactivity.

Bruce Tossers Dump Fort Hill In Upset 4-2 Victory

Rally Knocks Sentinels Out Of 1st Place

Bulldogs Score 2nd Win In County Loop Over Local Nine

A four-run fifth inning rally in which Bruce collected five of its six hits enabled the Bulldogs to upset Fort Hill High's Sentinels yesterday at Westernport, knocking the Sentinels out of a first place tie in the Allegany County League, 4-2.

Gary Henry was breezing home with a one-hitter and protecting a 1-0 lead when the roof caved in in the home half of the fifth.

Bruce gained its second victory of the season, both coming over Cumberland school nines, when they bunched five singles with a hit batsman and a walk for four runs and the victory.

Opens With Single

Ronnie Chiccehitto opened the frame with a single and stole second. He was moments later thrown out at home plate trying to score on Roy Beard's one base knock. Henry hit Bob Grove with a pitched ball and after fanning Joe Price walked his mound opponent, R. L. Wilson to load the sacks. He then was rocked for consecutive singles by Gary Clem, John Price and Ronnie Broadwater to plate the four Bruce tallies before he was relieved by Manges.

Fort Hill opened the scoring with a single run in the fourth inning. Parsons singled and took third on an error, scoring moments later on Henry's one-base blow.

Sentinels Rally

In the sixth the Sentinels rallied briefly when Kline walked after Parsons fanned and scored on singles by Kean and Manges. Wilson then bore down to get the side out and in the seventh fanned Lewis and Hammond and made Kline ground out to shortstop to end the game.

The loss was the second for Fort Hill and dropped them from a first place deadlock with Mt. Savage and LaSalle. The Explorers, scheduled to play at Campobello against the Allegany High Campers yesterday, were idle when their contest was postponed because of wet grounds.

LaSalle and Allegany will endeavor to get the twice-postponed game played today at 4 p.m. on the Allegany field. The boxscore:

Mathias Whips Capon Bridge

Win 4th In Row By 13-4 Score

MATHIAS, W. Va. — Mathias High's baseball tossers captured their fourth straight Potomac Valley Conference victory yesterday by coming up with nine runs in the last two innings for a 13-4 triumph over Capon Bridge here.

Robert Moyer pitched the undefeated Mathias nine to victory with a seven hitter and aided his own cause by belting out three hits, including a triple and home run. He was touched for doubles by Emmart and Slonaker and a home run in the seventh by Wolford, but kept Capon Bridge under control.

Mathias, leading 4-3, put the game out of reach with five runs in the fifth inning and four more in the sixth in a 13-hit assault on three Capon Bridge hurlers.

The loss was the fifth in a row in the league by Capon Bridge. The boxscore:

Art Lewis' Son To Enter West Point

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (UPI) —The Morgantown Post said Tuesday Cammie Lewis, son of West Virginia University football coach Art Lewis, is scheduled to enter a New York prep school next week to study for entrance to the U. S. Military Academy.

Sports editor Tony Constantine said Army athletic officers recommended that Lewis take a six-week course at Braden's School at Cornwall-on-the Hudson.

Arnone Declares Ump's Decisions Affected Morale

Coach Enordo "Moose" Arnone, of Beall High School, last evening informed The Cumberland News, that the morale of his players was affected by two decisions made by Umpire George Geatz in the game with Allegany High School on April 21, which the Campers won by the score of 4-0, and that's why his protest from the fifth inning was not withdrawn.

"It's true Beall was the loser of a no-run, no-hit game but our boys were distressed over the decisions which were a misinterpretation of ground rules and I feel we were justified in filing a protest," Arnone declared.

"The run under protest was the third of the game and not the fourth."

Arnone stated his protest related to Umpire Geatz permitting a runner to score from first base following a wild throw to first base. The batsman also was given three bases on the overthrow, he said.

The Beall mentor argued that these decisions conflict with the one-and-one ground rule on wild throws at the Frostburg field. The protest, he contended, concerned ground rules and not an umpire's judgment.

"If Umpire Geatz says the runner was on second base when the wild throw was made he is incorrect," Arnone declared "The runner was on first base and was entitled to third — and not home — on the overthrow."

A committee of three, headed by Walter L. Bowers, will meet here tonight to conduct a hearing on the Beall protest.

Cincinnati Put On Probation For Infractions

Money Help Cited By NCAA Council

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Work-and-learn education and money help to athletes combined Wednesday to dip the University of Cincinnati into hot water with the National Collegiate Athletic Assn.

The NCAA soaked the Bearcats with an indefinite, though not caustic, probation until they get their house in order.

The 18-man NCAA Advisory Council also slapped a one-year probation on Gustavus Adolphus College of St. Peter, Minn., for playing in a noncertified postseason football game last year.

Walt Byers, executive director of the NCAA, explained the Cincinnati probation will not keep its athletic teams out of postseason events or NCAA championships.

The council ordered Cincinnati to make an adjustment in its student-athlete financial aid setup and report in October. Byers said the Council then can either lift the probation if the report is satisfactory or impose stringent penalties if corrections are not made.

Byers said the problem arose when Cincinnati gave 13 football and basketball players grant-in-aid financial assistance which together with their on-the-job salaries put them over the NCAA-allowed limit.

All America Oscar Robertson, the nation's leading basketball scorer last season, was not involved, Byers said.

The Council's action Wednesday left 12 cases still pending for possible penalty Byers did not comment on the remaining cases.

Gustavus Adolphus came under fire for playing Arizona (Flagstaff) State in a postseason game to determine the teams for the Holiday Bowl at St. Petersburg, Fla. Neither the Adolphus-Arizona State game nor the Holiday Bowl were certified by the NCAA and the school's football team is ineligible for one year for postseason games. The action does not affect the college's other teams.

Bruce Tossers Dump Fort Hill In Upset 4-2 Victory

Rally Knocks Sentinels Out Of 1st Place

Bulldogs Score 2nd Win In County Loop Over Local Nine

A four-run fifth inning rally in which Bruce collected five of its six hits enabled the Bulldogs to upset Fort Hill High's Sentinels yesterday at Westernport, knocking the Sentinels out of a first place tie in the Allegany County League, 4-2.

Gary Henry was breezing home with a one-hitter and protecting a 1-0 lead when the roof caved in in the home half of the fifth.

Bruce gained its second victory of the season, both coming over Cumberland school nines, when they bunched five singles with a hit batsman and a walk for four runs and the victory.

Opens With Single

Ronnie Chiccehitto opened the frame with a single and stole second. He was moments later thrown out at home plate trying to score on Roy Beard's one base knock. Henry hit Bob Grove with a pitched ball and after fanning Joe Price walked his mound opponent, R. L. Wilson to load the sacks. He then was rocked for consecutive singles by Gary Clem, John Price and Ronnie Broadwater to plate the four Bruce tallies before he was relieved by Manges.

Fort Hill opened the scoring with a single run in the fourth inning. Parsons singled and took third on an error, scoring moments later on Henry's one-base blow.

Sentinels Rally

In the sixth the Sentinels rallied briefly when Kline walked after Parsons fanned and scored on singles by Kean and Manges. Wilson then bore down to get the side out and in the seventh fanned Lewis and Hammond and made Kline ground out to shortstop to end the game.

The loss was the second for Fort Hill and dropped them from a first place deadlock with Mt. Savage and LaSalle. The Explorers, scheduled to play at Campobello against the Allegany High Campers yesterday, were idle when their contest was postponed because of wet grounds.

LaSalle and Allegany will endeavor to get the twice-postponed game played today at 4 p.m. on the Allegany field. The boxscore:

Art Lewis' Son To Enter West Point

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (UPI) —The Morgantown Post said Tuesday Cammie Lewis, son of West Virginia University football coach Art Lewis, is scheduled to enter a New York prep school next week to study for entrance to the U. S. Military Academy.

Sports editor Tony Constantine said Army athletic officers recommended that Lewis take a six-week course at Braden's School at Cornwall-on-the Hudson.

Arnone Declares Ump's Decisions Affected Morale

Coach Enordo "Moose" Arnone, of Beall High School, last evening informed The Cumberland News, that the morale of his players was affected by two decisions made by Umpire George Geatz in the game with Allegany High School on April 21, which the Campers won by the score of 4-0, and that's why his protest from the fifth inning was not withdrawn.

"It's true Beall was the loser of a no-run, no-hit game but our boys were distressed over the decisions which were a misinterpretation of ground rules and I feel we were justified in filing a protest," Arnone declared.

"The run under protest was the third of the game and not the fourth."

Arnone stated his protest related to Umpire Geatz permitting a runner to score from first base following a wild throw to first base. The batsman also was given three bases on the overthrow, he said.

The Beall mentor argued that these decisions conflict with the one-and-one ground rule on wild throws at the Frostburg field. The protest, he contended, concerned ground rules and not an umpire's judgment.

"If Umpire Geatz says the runner was on second base when the wild throw was made he is incorrect," Arnone declared "The runner was on first base and was entitled to third — and not home — on the overthrow."

A committee of three, headed by Walter L. Bowers, will meet here tonight to conduct a hearing on the Beall protest.

Athletics Overcome Nats, 7-6

Lopez Singles In Winning Tally

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI)—Hector Lopez drove in his fourth run of the day with a single down the right field line in the ninth inning Wednesday to give the Kansas City Athletics a 7-6 victory over the Washington Senators.

The Senators had come from three runs behind to tie the score at 6-6 in the top of the ninth when they got three consecutive pinch singles from Albie Pearson, Herb Plews and J. W. Porter, followed by other scoring singles by Bob Allison and Jim Lemon.

Ralph Terry, who had allowed only six hits through the first eight innings, was knocked from the mound in that barrage as was Bud Daley. Tom Gorman eventually retired the side and was credited with the victory.

Lopez' winning single in the ninth came afer leadoff man Bill Tuttle was struck by a pitch from Vito Valentinetti and advanced to second on a sacrifice by Hal Smith.

Earlier Lopez blasted a 420-foot home run with one man aboard in the seventh inning and singled home Dick Williams, who had doubled in the first inning. Bob Cerv added another Athletic run in the opening frame with a sacrifice fly.

Brown To Defend Title On June 3 Against Rosi

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lightweight champion Joe Brown was matched Wednesday for a title defense against Paolo Rosi in Washington on June 3.

Brown, king of the 135-pounders since 1956, will be putting his crown on the line for the seventh time.

Rosi, the balding Italian who came to this country late in 1952, was listed as No. 3 contender in Ring magazine's rankings issued Wednesday morning. The National Boxing Assn. rates him fifth.

The Wednesday night fight will be televised nationally with the Washington area, for about 100 miles on all sides, blacked out.

Announcement of the match was made by TV producer Lester Malitz and local promoter Goldie Ahearn.

Walton To Play With Small Squad

WALTON, W. Va. (UPI) —Walton High School's undaunted coaches have lined up a full nine-game football schedule for next fall. And they look for a big turnout of candidates for the team — "as many as 20."

Coaches Ray Waldo and Don Weaver are looking forward optimistically to the 1959 season in spite of the fact they didn't have enough players to complete the 1958 season.

With barely enough boys for a starting lineup to begin with, they had to throw in the towel when injuries and illness reduced the number of able-bodied players below the minimum of 11.

The Loyal Order of Moose team of the Rocking Chair Softball League will practice tonight at 6 p.m. at Allegany field.

Hearing Set On Race Bill

Controversy Brings Monday Conference

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—Gov. Tawes Wednesday scheduled a hearing for 10 a. m. Monday on a controversial bill to reorganize the State Racing Commission.

Aides said he set the hearing in view of a controversy which has swirled around the bill since its enactment and a large volume of correspondence which he is receiving on it.

It will be the second such hearing held by the governor on legislation from the 1959 legislative session. One is scheduled for 11 a. m. Thursday on a bill to establish and enforce a set of minimum retail prices on whisky.

The governor's announcement came as racing interests attempted to raise 10,000 signatures of registered voters to force the bill on the 1960 election ballot.

The bill would abolish the present three-man racing commission and replace it with a five-man agency June 1. It was sponsored by Dels. Quinn (D-Somerset), Hickman (D-Worcester) and Hanna (D-Wicomico) and was opposed by operators of every race track in the state except Ocean Downs, the harness racing oval at Ocean City.

Chair Loop Plans Meeting Tonight

The Rocking Chair Softball League will hold an important meeting tonight at 8 o'clock at the Wilson Hardware Store on North Mechanic Street.

A revised edition of the by-laws will be given to team members, copies of the league schedule will be handed out, and forfeit fees and rosters will be turned in at the meeting.

The league will open its season next Tuesday.

Our Holiday Scores Win

Cops Bethesda Purse At Laurel

LAUREL, Md., April 29 (AP) —Our Holiday won the $5,000 Bethesda-Chevy Chase purse here today, overtaking the favored Honey's Tiger in the stretch run for a length and a half triumph.

Although the track was only "good" as a result of yesterday's rain, Our Holiday, owned by Frances A. Genter, was timed in an excellent 1:11 4/5.

Ridden by Joe Culmone, the 6-year-old horse posted a $9 mutuel while gaining his first score of the 1959 season.

Honey's Tiger, 2-1 choice with the crowd of 9,358 fans, was second by three-quarters of a length over Melpet Jr.

Karl Korte, who yesterday won a division of the derby trial with Open View, was very much in evidence this afternoon as he scored with two longshots.

In the sixth, the 24-year-old jockey brought George F. Kohn's Vilrified home a length winner over Monetary. The 4-year-old gelding paid $37.20.

Earlier, Korte got Edward Freigenbaum's Voodoo Drums up for a dead heat with Ridge Stable's Cass Blue in the six-furlong fifth race.

London Looks Tough On Eve Of Championship Go

Patterson Favored By Lopsided Odds

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Brian London's jaw slides out like the bottom drawer of a bureau. It offers a superb target for Heavyweight Champion Floyd Patterson with his quick, accurate hands.

The countdown starts Friday at 9 p.m. (EST). Floyd's title, of course, will be at stake. So will his scheduled June 25 defense at Yankee Stadium against Ingemar Johansson.

If there is any sense of impending disaster buried deep within the sturdy Englishman, it does not show on the surface. He talks and acts like a man with only one worry—which way to the bank? The jaw collects $60,000 for this effort, plus expenses for various assorted members of the London family, calculated to run up a $15,000 tab.

In addition, this 24-year-old mauler from Blackpool who lost his British title in his last fight, gets a shot at the big one. Remember Max Schmeling against Joe Louis? And Joe Walcott against Ezzard Charles in Pittsburgh? Anything can happen, despite the lopsided odds that run from 10-1 to 7-1.

Watching this sturdy six-footer in the gym, you get the impression that he will be rough and tough as long as he can keep it up.

The chin? Well, London claims he never has been knocked down. He does admit he sunk to the deck against Jim Cooper and Willie Pastrano, claiming low blows. However, when the referee didn't agree, he soon was back on his feet.

Both Patterson and London slowed down to loosening up exercises Wednesday.

If there is any sense of impending disaster buried deep within the sturdy Englishman, it does not show on the surface. He talks and acts like a man with only one worry—which way to the bank? The jaw collects $60,000 for this effort, plus expenses for various assorted members of the London family, calculated to run up a $15,000 tab.

In addition, this 24-year-old mauler from Blackpool who lost his British title in his last fight, gets a shot at the big one. Remember Max Schmeling against Joe Louis? And Joe Walcott against Ezzard Charles in Pittsburgh? Anything can happen, despite the lopsided odds that run from 10-1 to 7-1.

Watching this sturdy six-footer in the gym, you get the impression that he will be rough and tough as long as he can keep it up.

The chin? Well, London claims he never has been knocked down. He does admit he sunk to the deck against Jim Cooper and Willie Pastrano, claiming low blows. However, when the referee didn't agree, he soon was back on his feet.

Both Patterson and London slowed down to loosening up exercises Wednesday.

Shenandoah Downs Opens Racing Season Friday Night

Track Plans 102 Evening Race Dates

$4 Million Gamble Is Within Sight Of Charles Town Oval

By GEORGE BOWEN

CHARLES TOWN, W. Va. (AP) —The lights go on and the horses run Friday night in a 4 million dollar gamble that there's always room for something new.

The spick-and-span track known as Shenandoah Downs is opening within sight of the 26-year-old Charles Town Jockey Club and adjacent to Maryland where there are 276 daily programs of racing at a dozen plants during the year.

Shenandoah's 62 nights until July 11 and another 42 starting Sept. 14 provides West Virginia with 364 daily racing cards this year at four tracks.

Remain Daytime

Wheeling Downs also started operating nights last year while Charles Town and Waterford Park remain daytime ventures.

Shenandoah was a long time getting started, but it finished with a rush. County voters approved it three years ago, with the understanding the racing would be harness horses with sulky and driver.

Things dawdled along until midsummer of 1957 when race track officials asked the West Virginia Racing Commission for an extension of time to build the plant and removal of a restriction on the license application to harness racing.

The commission refused, as well as turning down any dates for 1958.

The argument was taken to the state supreme court. On Dec. 10, 1957, the court ordered the commission to give the track three months from then to issue contracts for building and to permit thoroughbred racing.

Preliminary work started the next month. But it wasn't until Feb. 9 of this year that five major contracts were let for the buildings. Within 80 days, they were completed.

Result Eye-Appealing

The result is eye appealing, comfortable. There are seats for 5,050, including 550 at dining tables on five tiers in the clubhouse.

The individual seats are unusually wide with backs and arms.

In addition to the clubhouse dining facilities, there is a grandstand cafeteria seating 300 and snack bars.

The clubhouse has three floors and can be reached by an elevator as well as four stairways.

Counting standing room on black topped concourses between the rail and the stands, Shenandoah officials estimate 18,000 spectators can be accommodated.

The twelve barns of cinder block can stable 632 horses.

Parking space for 3,500 cars is available. Railroad trains from Baltimore, Washington, Silver Spring, Md., and Rockville, Md., will deliver passengers right to the doors.

The track will be lighted by one million watts during races, including 600 bulbs on 210 standards around the track plus flood lamps at the finish. It is five-eighths of a mile once around.

The track is located on 137 acres and it faces a 30-mile panorama of the Blue Ridge mountains.

The first of nine nightly races will start at 7:45 p.m. (eastern daylight time).

Gov. Cecil H. Underwood of West Virginia will participate in dedication ceremonies 15 minutes earlier Friday night and present a trophy to the winner in a $5,000 race named in his honor.

IT'S MINT JULEP TIME in old Louisville, Ky., and that means the Derby and the Run for the Roses. The 85th presentation is coming up Saturday, May 2, with a big field expected. Close to 100,000 will jam Churchill Downs for the event, the first of the "Triple Crown" series. The race is for three-year-olds, at a mile and a quarter, with First Landing the choice (Central Press)

Crafty Skipper Is Easy Victor At Jamaica

Bally Ache Sets New Track Mark

JAMAICA, N. Y., April 29 (AP) —Charfran Stable's Crafty Skipper ran off and hid from six rivals to win the 26th running of the $27,850 Jamaica Handicap at Jamaica race track today.

The 3-year-old son of Crafty Admiral - Molecomb Peak, was clocked in the near record time of 1:09 3/5, one fifth off Sheilas Reward's mark set in 1950, in scoring by four and a half lengths over Mrs. Wallace Gilroy's Jet Fuel, who outphotoed Emil Dolce's Manassa Mauler, hero of the Wood Memorial, by a half length for the place. A length out of the money was Alamode Farm's Mail Order.

Crafty Skipper was rushed to the front by Jockey Bob Ussery soon after the start and was never menaced. Whatever race there was for the rest of the placings.

The colt earned a net purse of $17,602 for Charles Cohen, Miami Beach, Fla., sportsman.

Lukewarm favorite with the crowd of 21,122, Crafty Skipper returned mutuels of $5.70, $3.60 and $2.70. Jet Fuel paid $4.60 and $3.20 and Manassa Mauler was $2.80 to show.

Earlier in the day Bally Ache, a 2-year-old son of Ballydam-Celestial Blue, owned by Leonard D. Fruchtman of Toledo, O., sprinted five furlongs in 0:57 4/5 for a new track record.

With Dave Erb in the irons, Bally Ache ran down pace-setting Ira Eaker in the stretch to win by three quarters of a length going away. The new clocking was a fifth of a second faster than Red Sonnet's mark set in 1942. It was the third start for Bally Ache and second consecutive victory, the colt having taken a division of the Hialeah Juvenile this winter. Bally Ache was the $10.50 third choice.

Edward MacWilliams of Virginia Beach, Va., is given credit for having introduced the quiz-type program on the radio.

Calumet Farms To Sit Out Kentucky Derby Saturday

On-And-On Dropped From Race Classic

By JOHN CHANDLER

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Owners of 17 possible starters in the 85th running of the Kentucky Derby must kick in with an entry box fee of $250 Thursday, and there must be some signs of relief. The fabulous Calumet Farm is remaining in the barn. Someone else gets a clear crack at the big money.

No derby in 50 years has perplexed the Blue Grass such as this $125,000-added race which will be spread out before a Churchill Downs crowd of 90,000-100,000 Saturday and a national TV audience.

Calumet's famed devil's red and blue silks were carried into the winners' circle in 1957 by Iron Liege, and last May by Tim Tam. Trainer Jimmy Jones Wednesday reluctantly withdrew his derby colt, On-And-On, from this 3-year-old classic.

Three days before America's premier thoroughbred classic, no clearly defined favorite could be located.

Texans and the Californians talked about Tomy Lee, Silver Spoon, Finnegan and Royal Orbit. The East and Florida waypoints wondered whether First Landing, Sword Dancer, Our Dad, or Easy Spur might win.

First Landing, owned by Christopher T. Chenery, was the undisputed 2-year-old champion in 1958, but hasn't been acting like the 3-year-old king. Tomy Lee, a British-bred colt owned by Fred Turner of Midland, Tex., won the Blue Grass Stakes last week at nearby Keeneland. In two meetings last fall, First Landing barely edged Tomy Lee. First Landing was no great shakes in Florida, lost the Wood Memorial at Jamaica recently, and then won his division of the Derby Trial Stakes Tuesday.

Since Eddie Arcaro will pilot First Landing as he seeks his sixth derby victory, his mount may be a lukewarm favorite at 2-1 by the 4:30 p.m., EST, post time. Willie Shoemaker rides Tomy Lee, about a 5-2 proposition.

Silver Spoon, C. V. Whitney's filly, will get support from the sentimentalists.

Patrice Jacobs' Our Dad is getting attention, as is Neil S. McCarthy's Finnegan. Mrs. Jacques Braunstein's Royal Orbit is well liked. Brookmeade Stable's Sword Dancer will get support after beating Jim Norris' Easy Spur and Silver Spoon in the Stepping Stone Purse here last Saturday.

Mickey Defends Ladies Title

NEW YORK (UPI) — Mickey Wright of San Diego, Calif., will defend her Ladies Professional Golf Assn. championship in a record field of 30 pros at French Lick, Ind., July 2-5, it was announced Wednesday.

The 72-hole championship, with a purse of $7,500, will be played on the steep-hilled, 6,700-yard French Lick-Sheraton County Club course, which the lady pros described as a "cliff-dweller's paradise" during a tournament there last year.

Miss Wright won the 1958 ladies PGA championship with a 288 total at Pittsburgh. Probable favorite in this year's tournament will be Louise Suggs of Sea Island, Ga., who won the 1958 French Lick open with a 72-hole score of 300.

American Owned Horses Also Ran

NEWMARKET, England (AP)—Three American-owned horses finished out of the money Wednesday as Aly Khan's Taboun won the 151st running of the 2,000 Guineas, Britain's first major racing event of the season.

Taboun led Masham to the wire by three lengths, with Carnoustie third in the mile race over turf. Taboun was timed in 1:42.42.

Hieroglyph and Welsh Guard, owned by J. W. Hanes of Ben Tulloch Farm, N.Y., and Dan Cupid, the entry of Mrs. P. A. B. Widener of New York, were the American horses.

Shenandoah Downs Opens Racing Season Friday Night

Track Plans 102 Evening Race Dates

$4 Million Gamble Is Within Sight Of Charles Town Oval

By GEORGE BOWEN

CHARLES TOWN, W. Va. (AP) —The lights go on and the horses run Friday night in a 4 million dollar gamble that there's always room for something new.

The spick-and-span track known as Shenandoah Downs is opening within sight of the 26-year-old Charles Town Jockey Club and adjacent to Maryland where there are 276 daily programs of racing at a dozen plants during the year.

Shenandoah's 62 nights until July 11 and another 42 starting Sept. 14 provides West Virginia with 364 daily racing cards this year at four tracks.

Remain Daytime

Wheeling Downs also started operating nights last year while Charles Town and Waterford Park remain daytime ventures.

Shenandoah was a long time getting started, but it finished with a rush. County voters approved it three years ago, with the understanding the racing would be harness horses with sulky and driver.

Things dawdled along until midsummer of 1957 when race track officials asked the West Virginia Racing Commission for an extension of time to build the plant and removal of a restriction on the license application to harness racing.

The commission refused, as well as turning down any dates for 1958.

The argument was taken to the state supreme court. On Dec. 10, 1957, the court ordered the commission to give the track three months from then to issue contracts for building and to permit thoroughbred racing.

Preliminary work started the next month. But it wasn't until Feb. 9 of this year that five major contracts were let for the buildings. Within 80 days, they were completed.

Result Eye-Appealing

The result is eye appealing, comfortable. There are seats for 5,050, including 550 at dining tables on five tiers in the clubhouse.

The individual seats are unusually wide with backs and arms.

In addition to the clubhouse dining facilities, there is a grandstand cafeteria seating 300 and snack bars.

The clubhouse has three floors and can be reached by an elevator as well as four stairways.

Counting standing room on black topped concourses between the rail and the stands, Shenandoah officials estimate 18,000 spectators can be accommodated.

The twelve barns of cinder block can stable 632 horses.

Parking space for 3,500 cars is available. Railroad trains from Baltimore, Washington, Silver Spring, Md., and Rockville, Md., will deliver passengers right to the doors.

The track will be lighted by one million watts during races, including 600 bulbs on 210 standards around the track plus flood lamps at the finish. It is five-eighths of a mile once around.

The track is located on 137 acres and it faces a 30-mile panorama of the Blue Ridge mountains.

The first of nine nightly races will start at 7:45 p.m. (eastern daylight time).

Gov. Cecil H. Underwood of West Virginia will participate in dedication ceremonies 15 minutes earlier Friday night and present a trophy to the winner in a $5,000 race named in his honor.

IT'S MINT JULEP TIME in old Louisville, Ky., and that means the Derby and the Run for the Roses. The 85th presentation is coming up Saturday, May 2, with a big field expected. Close to 100,000 will jam Churchill Downs for the event, the first of the "Triple Crown" series. The race is for three-year-olds, at a mile and a quarter, with First Landing the choice (Central Press)

Two Track Meets On Tap For Today

Two track meets are on tap in Allegany county today.

A dual meet between the thinclads of the Allegany and Ridgeley varsity squads is set for Campobello at 4 p.m.

Beall Junior High and Ridgeley Junior High are slated to meet at Frostburg today at 4 p.m.

Crafty Skipper Is Easy Victor At Jamaica

Bally Ache Sets New Track Mark

JAMAICA, N. Y., April 29 (AP) —Charfran Stable's Crafty Skipper ran off and hid from six rivals to win the 26th running of the $27,850 Jamaica Handicap at Jamaica race track today.

The 3-year-old son of Crafty Admiral - Molecomb Peak, was clocked in the near record time of 1:09 3/5, one fifth off Sheilas Reward's mark set in 1950, in scoring by four and a half lengths over Mrs. Wallace Gilroy's Jet Fuel, who outphotoed Emil Dolce's Manassa Mauler, hero of the Wood Memorial, by a half length for the place. A length out of the money was Alamode Farm's Mail Order.

Crafty Skipper was rushed to the front by Jockey Bob Ussery soon after the start and was never menaced. Whatever race there was for the rest of the placings.

The colt earned a net purse of $17,602 for Charles Cohen, Miami Beach, Fla., sportsman.

Lukewarm favorite with the crowd of 21,122, Crafty Skipper returned mutuels of $5.70, $3.60 and $2.70. Jet Fuel paid $4.60 and $3.20 and Manassa Mauler was $2.80 to show.

Earlier in the day Bally Ache, a 2-year-old son of Ballydam-Celestial Blue, owned by Leonard D. Fruchtman of Toledo, O., sprinted five furlongs in 0:57 4/5 for a new track record.

With Dave Erb in the irons, Bally Ache ran down pace-setting Ira Eaker in the stretch to win by three quarters of a length going away. The new clocking was a fifth of a second faster than Red Sonnet's mark set in 1942. It was the third start for Bally Ache and second consecutive victory, the colt having taken a division of the Hialeah Juvenile this winter. Bally Ache was the $10.50 third choice.

Edward MacWilliams of Virginia Beach, Va., is given credit for having introduced the quiz-type program on the radio.

Calumet Farms To Sit Out Kentucky Derby Saturday

On-And-On Dropped From Race Classic

By JOHN CHANDLER

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Owners of 17 possible starters in the 85th running of the Kentucky Derby must kick in with an entry box fee of $250 Thursday, and there must be some signs of relief. The fabulous Calumet Farm is remaining in the barn. Someone else gets a clear crack at the big money.

No derby in 50 years has perplexed the Blue Grass such as this $125,000-added race which will be spread out before a Churchill Downs crowd of 90,000-100,000 Saturday and a national TV audience.

Calumet's famed devil's red and blue silks were carried into the winners' circle in 1957 by Iron Liege, and last May by Tim Tam. Trainer Jimmy Jones Wednesday reluctantly withdrew his derby colt, On-And-On, from this 3-year-old classic.

Three days before America's premier thoroughbred classic, no clearly defined favorite could be located.

Texans and the Californians talked about Tomy Lee, Silver Spoon, Finnegan and Royal Orbit. The East and Florida waypoints wondered whether First Landing, Sword Dancer, Our Dad, or Easy Spur might win.

First Landing, owned by Christopher T. Chenery, was the undisputed 2-year-old champion in 1958, but hasn't been acting like the 3-year-old king. Tomy Lee, a British-bred colt owned by Fred Turner of Midland, Tex., won the Blue Grass Stakes last week at nearby Keeneland. In two meetings last fall, First Landing barely edged Tomy Lee. First Landing was no great shakes in Florida, lost the Wood Memorial at Jamaica recently, and then won his division of the Derby Trial Stakes Tuesday.

Since Eddie Arcaro will pilot First Landing as he seeks his sixth derby victory, his mount may be a lukewarm favorite at 2-1 by the 4:30 p.m., EST, post time. Willie Shoemaker rides Tomy Lee, about a 5-2 proposition.

Silver Spoon, C. V. Whitney's filly, will get support from the sentimentalists.

Patrice Jacobs' Our Dad is getting attention, as is Neil S. McCarthy's Finnegan. Mrs. Jacques Braunstein's Royal Orbit is well liked. Brookmeade Stable's Sword Dancer will get support after beating Jim Norris' Easy Spur and Silver Spoon in the Stepping Stone Purse here last Saturday.

Mickey Defends Ladies Title

NEW YORK (UPI) — Mickey Wright of San Diego, Calif., will defend her Ladies Professional Golf Assn. championship in a record field of 30 pros at French Lick, Ind., July 2-5, it was announced Wednesday.

The 72-hole championship, with a purse of $7,500, will be played on the steep-hilled, 6,700-yard French Lick-Sheraton County Club course, which the lady pros described as a "cliff-dweller's paradise" during a tournament there last year.

Miss Wright won the 1958 ladies PGA championship with a 288 total at Pittsburgh. Probable favorite in this year's tournament will be Louise Suggs of Sea Island, Ga., who won the 1958 French Lick open with a 72-hole score of 300.

Bengals Bomb Orioles, 7-1, For 2nd Win

Extra Base Barrage Snaps Losing Skein

DETROIT (UPI) — The Detroit Tigers broke out of a six-game losing streak Wednesday with a barrage of seven extra base hits for a 7-1 victory over the Baltimore Orioles.

The game was called with Baltimore batting in the sixth inning because of rain. It had been delayed three times for a total of 46 minutes before Plate Umpire Ed Runge finally called it after another 65 minute delay.

Rookie Larry Osborne, who took over at first base for the slumping Gail Harris, shot the Tigers into the lead in the first inning when he homered off the roof of the third deck in right field after Eddie Yost led off the inning with a walk. It was Osborne's first major league homer.

Al Kaline belted a solo homer in the inning to make it 3-0.

The Tigers racked up only their second victory in 14 starts with two-run rallies in the third and fourth innings off reliefer Wes Stock, who took over for starter Arnold Portocarrero in the first.

Osborne started it in the third with his second of three straight hits and he was tripled home by Harvey Kuenn, who scored later when Jim Finigan fumbled Rocky Bridges' grounder.

A single by Osborne and doubles by Kuenn and Kaline accounted for two more runs in the fourth. Baltimore spoiled Frank Lary's shutout bid in the third when Billy Gardner doubled, took third on a passed ball and scored on pinch-hitter Al Pilarcik's single.

The Tiger victory snapped a four-game winning streak for the Orioles.

Eagles Players Sign Contracts

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Linebacker Bob Pelligrini and defensive halfback Lee Riley signed their 1959 contracts with the Philadelphia Eagles Tuesday.

Pellegrini, former Maryland All American and a native of Yatesboro, Pa., came to the Eagles in 1956 but entered military service after one season. He returned last season and led the club in interceptions with five.

Riley, former University of Detroit back who was with the Detroit Lions for one season, also joined the Eagles in 1956 and then went into service. He returned 16 punts for 232 yards last year.

GOOD CERV-ICE FOR K. C. By Alan Maver

The Sports Patrol

By STEVE SNIDER

NEW YORK (UPI)—The Harlem Globetrotters expect to climax one of the best seasons in their 32-year history of zany basketball by piercing the Iron Curtain for the first time this summer.

"We have four firm dates in Poland early in July, tentative agreements in Czechoslovakia and we're highly encouraged about negotiations with Russia," said owner Abe Saperstein. "I understand the Soviet section of sports is working on our annual application right now."

The European tour, also scheduled to touch nearly all countries on the continent as well as England and a first trip to Ireland, may be the last as a Globetrotter for seven-foot Wilt Chamberlain, the University of Kansas All-America who surrendered his final year of college basketball to join the professional Trotters.

Wilt apparently has made up his mind to join the Philadelphia Warriors of the National Basketball Association next season.

"That was the original plan," said Saperstein, who owns a piece of the Warriors. "As of now, the plan hasn't been changed."

Robertson Is Good Bet

Indicating he, too, expects Chamberlain to enter the pro league, Abe said he's "hot on the trial of a hot new attraction" for his 1959-60 Trotter tourists. One good bet is Oscar Robertson, two-time Cincinnati All-America, though Saperstein won't admit it since Oscar, like Chamberlain a year ago, has another college season if he wants it.

"We need a new attraction every year," said Saperstein. "This year's tour proved how valuable a big new name can be. Chamberlain was a magnificent draw. This was one of our five best years in history—and we didn't expect too much because of unemployment in some of the industrial sections we always visit."

Playing with the No. 1 of three Globetrotter units, Chamberlain wowed 'em all over the United States, parts of Canada and on a flying four-game trip to Hawaii.

All But Broken Down

As for appearances behind the Iron Curtain, Saperstein feels the barriers have been all but broken down.

"Five years ago, when we played in Belgium and France, the Russian team was flown in to watch us play," Abe recalled. "Later, the Russian coach went back home and wrote about me being a capitalist with performing slaves.

"But I think the line is changed now that Europeans have become more accustomed to seeing our Negro athletes in action both on and off the court."

Saperstein says the best bit of "propaganda" he ever engineered abroad for his Trotters came about accidentally.

"On our first tour of Europe 11 years ago, we were loaded with money and booked the Trotters into the best hotels everywhere," he said. "I didn't know one hotel from another but just asked for the best. When the people saw the team living in luxury, eating in the finest restaurants, dressing in good taste and acting the same way we broke down a lot of ideas they had been fed for years."

"New Arenas Mushrooming"

Abe is tinkering with another new project—a second pro league for the Far West.

"There are new arenas mushrooming all over the country," he said. "Every hamlet has a team of some sort and there's a pro player potential of two million. The NBA can use only about 100 players.

"That means a tremendous waste of talent—and new arenas waiting to be filled with pro basketball."

Mike Souchak Is Favored In Colonial Open

48 Golfers To Vie For $27,300 Title

FORT WORTH, Tex. (UPI) — Muscular Mike Souchak, 15 pounds lighter and $10,000 heavier, stood out Wednesday as the man to watch in the 48-player field set for the opening round of the $27,300 Colonial National Invitation golf tournament.

The burly former Duke University football and links star was not even mentioned in the balloting by the golf writers trying to establish a favorite, but the scribes voted last week before Mike gobbled up the huge pile of silver dollars as Tournament of Champions titlist.

That dubious honor—the writers have never picked a winner—went to veteran Cary Middlecoff by four points (32 to 28) over Arnold Palmer. Middlecoff's high regard was established by the fact he had won at St. Petersburg, finished second in the Masters and fifth at Houston since rejoining the tour in March.

Middlecoff skidded badly in the Tourney of Champions at Las Vegas, Nev., however, and wound up next to the bottom with a 305.

Dow Finsterwald, Jackie Burke, who showed his return to form by winning the Houston Classic two weeks ago, and defending champion Tommy Bolt rounded out the list of top five favorites picked by the writers.

Nearly every major name in golf with the exception of Sam Snead and Art Wall Jr., Master champion and top money winner, were in the Colonial field.

Snead had to decline an invitation because of previous commitments, while Wall begged off because he "never has played your course well," and because he said he needed a week of rest from the strenuous tour pressures.

Fort Worth's own Bantam Ben Hogan, who won this tourney four times, will be sentimental favorite. And, the little man could be a real threat if he could regain his putting touch. He knows Colonial's every trick and has been playing well from tee to green.

Colonial's 7,000-yard, par 35-35—70 layout has always been a tough one for the pros to crack and sub-par 72-hole totals have been scored only eight times in the dozen previous tournaments.

Souchak, who won this tournament in 1956, is credited with making the best climb from obscurity to the title. He was in 24th place at 74 after the opening round, then posted a 72-65-69—280 finish to nose out Bolt by a stroke and grab the $5,000 top money.

Home Runs Power Yanks To Victory Over Chisox

Mantle, Skowron, Bauer Hit In 5-2 Win

CHICAGO (UPI)—Mickey Mantle, Hank Bauer and Bill Skowron belted home runs Wednesday to power the New York Yankees to a 5-2 victory over the flu-stricken Chicago White Sox.

The victory went to Bob Turley, who went the distance yielding nine hits for his second complete game and second victory in four decisions.

Mantle's homer was a two-run blast into the right field stands after Norm Siebern's first-inning double. Bauer put starter Ray Moore's first pitch into the left field stands in the fifth inning. Skowron's blast was also a bases-empty shot into the right field seats after two outs in the seventh.

The Yankees picked up a single run after Norm Cash's error at first base in the fourth inning.

The White Sox were without six players and also Manager Al Lopez, who were recovering from the flu. The sick list included all the club's left-handed pinch hitters.

Tony Kubek, Yankee infielder, also was out of action. He saw the game from the stands after he suffered a dizzy spell in the morning.

Moore, Chicago's "Yankee killer" last season, was the loser. He was tapped for Mantle's and Bauer's home runs, and was the victim of the Yankee's single unearned run in the fourth inning, which opened when Mantle singled and stole second base.

Braves Involved In Trade Talks

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Trade talk involving Milwaukee pitchers cropped up Wednesday with right-handers Bob Buhl and Bob Trowbridge listed as possible bait.

Oliver E. Kuechle, sports editor of the Milwaukee Journal, wrote that deals with the Chicago Cubs and the St. Louis Cardinals are "well along in the talking stage."

Kuechle said the Braves reportedly are seeking infielder Al Dark of the Chicago Cubs and veteran outfielder Irv Noren of the St. Louis Cardinals.

The Braves' management declined comment.

Extra Base Barrage Snaps Losing Skein

DETROIT (UPI) — The Detroit Tigers broke out of a six-game losing streak Wednesday with a barrage of seven extra base hits for a 7-1 victory over the Baltimore Orioles.

The game was called with Baltimore batting in the sixth inning because of rain. It had been delayed three times for a total of 46 minutes before Plate Umpire Ed Runge finally called it after another 65 minute delay.

Rookie Larry Osborne, who took over at first base for the slumping Gail Harris, shot the Tigers into the lead in the first inning when he homered off the roof of the third deck in right field after Eddie Yost led off the inning with a walk. It was Osborne's first major league homer.

Al Kaline belted a solo homer in the inning to make it 3-0.

The Tigers racked up only their second victory in 14 starts with two-run rallies in the third and fourth innings off reliefer Wes Stock, who took over for starter Arnold Portocarrero in the first.

Osborne started it in the third with his second of three straight hits and he was tripled home by Harvey Kuenn, who scored later when Jim Finigan fumbled Rocky Bridges' grounder.

A single by Osborne and doubles by Kuenn and Kaline accounted for two more runs in the fourth. Baltimore spoiled Frank Lary's shutout bid in the third when Billy Gardner doubled, took third on a passed ball and scored on pinch-hitter Al Pilarcik's single.

The Tiger victory snapped a four-game winning streak for the Orioles.

Eagles Players Sign Contracts

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Linebacker Bob Pelligrini and defensive halfback Lee Riley signed their 1959 contracts with the Philadelphia Eagles Tuesday.

Pellegrini, former Maryland All American and a native of Yatesboro, Pa., came to the Eagles in 1956 but entered military service after one season. He returned last season and led the club in interceptions with five.

Riley, former University of Detroit back who was with the Detroit Lions for one season, also joined the Eagles in 1956 and then went into service. He returned 16 punts for 232 yards last year.

GOOD CERV-ICE FOR K. C. By Alan Maver

By STEVE SNIDER

NEW YORK (UPI)—The Harlem Globetrotters expect to climax one of the best seasons in their 32-year history of zany basketball by piercing the Iron Curtain for the first time this summer.

"We have four firm dates in Poland early in July, tentative agreements in Czechoslovakia and we're highly encouraged about negotiations with Russia," said owner Abe Saperstein. "I understand the Soviet section of sports is working on our annual application right now."

The European tour, also scheduled to touch nearly all countries on the continent as well as England and a first trip to Ireland, may be the last as a Globetrotter for seven-foot Wilt Chamberlain, the University of Kansas All-America who surrendered his final year of college basketball to join the professional Trotters.

Wilt apparently has made up his mind to join the Philadelphia Warriors of the National Basketball Association next season.

"That was the original plan," said Saperstein, who owns a piece of the Warriors. "As of now, the plan hasn't been changed."

Robertson Is Good Bet

Indicating he, too, expects Chamberlain to enter the pro league, Abe said he's "hot on the trial of a hot new attraction" for his 1959-60 Trotter tourists. One good bet is Oscar Robertson, two-time Cincinnati All-America, though Saperstein won't admit it since Oscar, like Chamberlain a year ago, has another college season if he wants it.

"We need a new attraction every year," said Saperstein. "This year's tour proved how valuable a big new name can be. Chamberlain was a magnificent draw. This was one of our five best years in history—and we didn't expect too much because of unemployment in some of the industrial sections we always visit."

Playing with the No. 1 of three Globetrotter units, Chamberlain wowed 'em all over the United States, parts of Canada and on a flying four-game trip to Hawaii.

All But Broken Down

As for appearances behind the Iron Curtain, Saperstein feels the barriers have been all but broken down.

"Five years ago, when we played in Belgium and France, the Russian team was flown in to watch us play," Abe recalled. "Later, the Russian coach went back home and wrote about me being a capitalist with performing slaves.

"But I think the line is changed now that Europeans have become more accustomed to seeing our Negro athletes in action both on and off the court."

Saperstein says the best bit of "propaganda" he ever engineered abroad for his Trotters came about accidentally.

"On our first tour of Europe 11 years ago, we were loaded with money and booked the Trotters into the best hotels everywhere," he said. "I didn't know one hotel from another but just asked for the best. When the people saw the team living in luxury, eating in the finest restaurants, dressing in good taste and acting the same way we broke down a lot of ideas they had been fed for years."

"New Arenas Mushrooming"

Abe is tinkering with another new project—a second pro league for the Far West.

"There are new arenas mushrooming all over the country," he said. "Every hamlet has a team of some sort and there's a pro player potential of two million. The NBA can use only about 100 players.

"That means a tremendous waste of talent—and new arenas waiting to be filled with pro basketball."

Mike Souchak Is Favored In Colonial Open

48 Golfers To Vie For $27,300 Title

FORT WORTH, Tex. (UPI) — Muscular Mike Souchak, 15 pounds lighter and $10,000 heavier, stood out Wednesday as the man to watch in the 48-player field set for the opening round of the $27,300 Colonial National Invitation golf tournament.

The burly former Duke University football and links star was not even mentioned in the balloting by the golf writers trying to establish a favorite, but the scribes voted last week before Mike gobbled up the huge pile of silver dollars as Tournament of Champions titlist.

That dubious honor—the writers have never picked a winner—went to veteran Cary Middlecoff by four points (32 to 28) over Arnold Palmer. Middlecoff's high regard was established by the fact he had won at St. Petersburg, finished second in the Masters and fifth at Houston since rejoining the tour in March.

Middlecoff skidded badly in the Tourney of Champions at Las Vegas, Nev., however, and wound up next to the bottom with a 305.

Dow Finsterwald, Jackie Burke, who showed his return to form by winning the Houston Classic two weeks ago, and defending champion Tommy Bolt rounded out the list of top five favorites picked by the writers.

Nearly every major name in golf with the exception of Sam Snead and Art Wall Jr., Master champion and top money winner, were in the Colonial field.

Snead had to decline an invitation because of previous commitments, while Wall begged off because he "never has played your course well," and because he said he needed a week of rest from the strenuous tour pressures.

Fort Worth's own Bantam Ben Hogan, who won this tourney four times, will be sentimental favorite. And, the little man could be a real threat if he could regain his putting touch. He knows Colonial's every trick and has been playing well from tee to green.

Colonial's 7,000-yard, par 35-35—70 layout has always been a tough one for the pros to crack and sub-par 72-hole totals have been scored only eight times in the dozen previous tournaments.

Souchak, who won this tournament in 1956, is credited with making the best climb from obscurity to the title. He was in 24th place at 74 after the opening round, then posted a 72-65-69—280 finish to nose out Bolt by a stroke and grab the $5,000 top money.

Home Runs Power Yanks To Victory Over Chisox

Mantle, Skowron, Bauer Hit In 5-2 Win

CHICAGO (UPI)—Mickey Mantle, Hank Bauer and Bill Skowron belted home runs Wednesday to power the New York Yankees to a 5-2 victory over the flu-stricken Chicago White Sox.

The victory went to Bob Turley, who went the distance yielding nine hits for his second complete game and second victory in four decisions.

Mantle's homer was a two-run blast into the right field stands after Norm Siebern's first-inning double. Bauer put starter Ray Moore's first pitch into the left field stands in the fifth inning. Skowron's blast was also a bases-empty shot into the right field seats after two outs in the seventh.

The Yankees picked up a single run after Norm Cash's error at first base in the fourth inning.

The White Sox were without six players and also Manager Al Lopez, who were recovering from the flu. The sick list included all the club's left-handed pinch hitters.

Tony Kubek, Yankee infielder, also was out of action. He saw the game from the stands after he suffered a dizzy spell in the morning.

Moore, Chicago's "Yankee killer" last season, was the loser. He was tapped for Mantle's and Bauer's home runs, and was the victim of the Yankee's single unearned run in the fourth inning, which opened when Mantle singled and stole second base.

Braves Involved In Trade Talks

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Trade talk involving Milwaukee pitchers cropped up Wednesday with right-handers Bob Buhl and Bob Trowbridge listed as possible bait.

Oliver E. Kuechle, sports editor of the Milwaukee Journal, wrote that deals with the Chicago Cubs and the St. Louis Cardinals are "well along in the talking stage."

Kuechle said the Braves reportedly are seeking infielder Al Dark of the Chicago Cubs and veteran outfielder Irv Noren of the St. Louis Cardinals.

The Braves' management declined comment.

Beall-Mt. Savage, Valley-Flintstone Teams Will Clash

Beall High School will host Mt. Savage and Valley High's Black Knights will visit Flintstone to tackle the Aggies in Allegany County Baseball League games scheduled for today. Both games are slated to start at 3 o'clock. These contests originally were set for Tuesday but were postponed on account of rain.

Two Potomac Valley Conference tilts also are on tap for today. Capon Bridge will oppose the Romney High Pioneers at Romney and Wardensville's Warriors will host the Berkeley Springs Indians.

Other games on Thursday's card include Shepherd at Bridgewater (Va.) College, Hyndman High School at Chestnut Ridge (Fishertown) and Smithsburg at Hancock.

The famous seated figure of Abraham Lincoln in the Lincoln Memorial in Washington is claimed to be the world's largest marble statue.

In no trump bidding the determining factor is almost invariably the quantity of high cards. Where 33 or 34 points are held, rarely will a balanced hand fail to produce a slam in no trump. But where a hand may be played at a suit there are times when 12 tricks may be scored with a great deal less in honor cards.

Strangely, even the upper strata of players will miss laydown slams where the hand must be played with a four card suit as trump. Here is a case from a recent tournament where less than 20 per cent of the life masters succeeded in reaching the best contract.

The diagram sets forth the bidding sequence employed by the winners of the event. South opened with one club, the suit below the singleton. North temporized with one diamond. After South's rebid of one heart, North jumped to two no trump which is just as forcing as though that response had been made at once. South's bid of three spades was a "free ride." At no cost of bidding space he was able to describe a three suit holding and yet permit partner to play at three no trump if he saw no greater future to the hand.

It now became clear to North that he had the perfect hand for partner. With 11 of his points he solidified all three of partner's suits and the weakness in diamonds which was a concern in the beginning proved to be no hazard at all for South was marked with at most one card in that suit. He, therefore, abandoned no trump in favor of a jump bid in clubs which made it easy for South to contract for slam.

With the jack of diamonds lead, South was able to set up the dummy by ruffing two diamonds in his hand and discarding the other diamond and a spade on his long hearts.

In no trump bidding the determining factor is almost invariably the quantity of high cards. Where 33 or 34 points are held, rarely will a balanced hand fail to produce a slam in no trump. But where a hand may be played at a suit there are times when 12 tricks may be scored with a great deal less in honor cards.

Strangely, even the upper strata of players will miss laydown slams where the hand must be played with a four card suit as trump. Here is a case from a recent tournament where less than 20 per cent of the life masters succeeded in reaching the best contract.

The diagram sets forth the bidding sequence employed by the winners of the event. South opened with one club, the suit below the singleton. North temporized with one diamond. After South's rebid of one heart, North jumped to two no trump which is just as forcing as though that response had been made at once. South's bid of three spades was a "free ride." At no cost of bidding space he was able to describe a three suit holding and yet permit partner to play at three no trump if he saw no greater future to the hand.

It now became clear to North that he had the perfect hand for partner. With 11 of his points he solidified all three of partner's suits and the weakness in diamonds which was a concern in the beginning proved to be no hazard at all for South was marked with at most one card in that suit. He, therefore, abandoned no trump in favor of a jump bid in clubs which made it easy for South to contract for slam.

With the jack of diamonds lead, South was able to set up the dummy by ruffing two diamonds in his hand and discarding the other diamond and a spade on his long hearts.

Card of Thanks

We desire to express our sincere thanks and appreciation to all our friends and neighbors and relatives who were so kind to us during our recent bereavement, the death of our beloved brother, William Brown. We especially wish to thank those who sent floral tributes, those who donated the use of their cars for the funeral, the pallbearers and to all others, the minister, those who sang and played, we are indeed grateful.

BROTHERS AND SISTERS OF WILLIAM BROWN,

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our beloved son and brother, Pvt. Donald E. Auril, who died one year ago today, in Korea, April 30, 1958.

Beautiful memories cherished forever
Of the happy days we spent together;
Silent thoughts bring many a tear
For the one we miss and loved so dear.

Sadly missed by Mother, Brothers & Sisters.

Police Slip Up

TOKYO (UPI) —Five Japanese police officers were reprimanded Saturday for laxity in guarding Crown Prince Akihito and Princess Michiko on their wedding day, when a young student hurled a rock at them and tried to drag them out of their carriage. The incident occurred April 10 as Akihito and Michiko rode through Tokyo in a glittering horse - and-carriage procession after their wedding.

Stock Market Irregular; Rails Capture Spotlight

NEW YORK (UPI)—The stock market spotlight switched to the rails, lifting prices in the group nearly a point on average while the list generally continued in a highly irregular pattern.

Among industrials, profit - taking was the predominant influence — with the selling attributed in part to concern over possible credit tigntening moves by the Federal Reserve Board at its Thursday meeting.

The realizing centered in recent strong spots in the electronics, drugs, steels and chemicals but there were many sharply higher features, too. Of a total 1,238 issues traded, 574 were lower on the day, 447 higher.

The trading pace lightened substantially with turnover totaling only 3,470,000 shares, compared with 3,920,000 on Tuesday.

Spurring the rails was announcement that the Erie and Delaware, Lackawanna & Western railroads have reached agreement on merger plans. Erie rose 1⅛ to 13 and Lackawanna ⅝ point to 10¾. There were gains of a point or more in Kansas City Southern and Louisville & Nashville.

While there was realizing in electronics, demand developed in the group late in the session, lifting Zenith 6½ points, Motorola 2¾, Philco 3 points, Reliance Electric 2, Consolidated Electrodynamics 1¾. Litton Texas Instruments and International Business Machines lost ground.

Among chemicals, Du Pont fell 2 points, Union Carbide the same amount. Stauffer, however, rose close to 4.

Chicago Grains

CHICAGO (UPI) — Grains were mixed today on the Chicago Board of Trade.

At the final bell, wheat was off ⅜ to up ⅜; corn unchanged to up ⅛; oats off ¼ to ⅝; new oats off ½ to up ⅛; rye up ⅝ to 1; soybeans unchanged to off 1⅛.

Liquidation continued in May wheat, bringing the price off ⅜ cent at the close. New crop contracts were firm, aided by back-spreading in May. Local traders were on the buying side. There was scattered demand by commission houses for new crop contracts.

Corn prices were steady, after a drop shortly after the opening. Brokers with elevator connections bought May early. Other cash houses bought July, with some buying against export sales. The spot basis was steady, and cash sales were 4 cents above the May price. The United Kingdom reportedly bought about 800,000 bushels of corn for June shipment.

Little if any followup buying was noted in oats after yesterday's advance, and commission house liquidation took place in the May delivery. Prices were easier, and local traders sold deferred contracts. Cash house buying of May on the decline steadied the market. Commodity Credit Corporation export acceptances on subsidy bids totaled 350,000 bushels.

Rye futures more than recovered early losses. May soybean contracts were under pressure, and the prices dropped. July was sold by northwest traders, while local traders did the buying. Lard and oil were steady.

Outside markets were mixed.

Stock Market Irregular; Rails Capture Spotlight

NEW YORK (UPI)—The stock market spotlight switched to the rails, lifting prices in the group nearly a point on average while the list generally continued in a highly irregular pattern.

Among industrials, profit - taking was the predominant influence — with the selling attributed in part to concern over possible credit tigntening moves by the Federal Reserve Board at its Thursday meeting.

The realizing centered in recent strong spots in the electronics, drugs, steels and chemicals but there were many sharply higher features, too. Of a total 1,238 issues traded, 574 were lower on the day, 447 higher.

The trading pace lightened substantially with turnover totaling only 3,470,000 shares, compared with 3,920,000 on Tuesday.

Spurring the rails was announcement that the Erie and Delaware, Lackawanna & Western railroads have reached agreement on merger plans. Erie rose 1⅛ to 13 and Lackawanna ⅝ point to 10³⁄₄. There were gains of a point or more in Kansas City Southern and Louisville & Nashville.

While there was realizing in electronics, demand developed in the group late in the session lifting Zenith 6½ points, Motorola 2 ¾, Philco 3 points, Reliance Electric 2, Consolidated Electrodynamics 1¾. Litton Texas Instruments and International Business Machines lost ground.

Among chemicals, Du Pont fell 2 points, Union Carbide the same amount. Stauffer, however, rose close to 4.

Chicago Grains

CHICAGO (UPI) — Grains were mixed today on the Chicago Board of Trade.

At the final bell, wheat was off ⅝ to up ⅜; corn unchanged to up ⅛; oats off ¼ to ⅝; new oats off ½ to up ⅛; rye up ⅜ to 1; soybeans unchanged to off 1⅛.

Liquidation continued in May wheat, bringing the price off ⅝ cent at the close. New crop contracts were firm, aided by back-spreading in May. Local traders were on the buying side. There was scattered demand by commission houses for new crop contracts.

Corn prices were steady, after a drop shortly after the opening. Brokers with elevator connections bought May early. Other cash houses bought July, with some buying against export sales. The spot basis was steady, and cash sales were 4 cents above the May price. The United Kingdom reportedly bought about 800,000 bushels of corn for June shipment.

Little if any followup buying was noted in oats after yesterday's advance, and commission house liquidation took place in the May delivery. Prices were easier, and local traders sold deferred contracts. Cash house buying of May on the decline steadied the market. Commodity Credit Corporation export acceptances on subsidy bids totaled 350,000 bushels.

Rye futures more than recovered early losses. May soybean contracts were under pressure, and the prices dropped. July was sold by northwest traders, while local traders did the buying. Lard and oil were steady.

Outside markets were mixed.

Man, Child Die As Car Hits Truck

Woman 'Serious' After Collision Near Mann's Choice

Two persons were killed and a third was seriously injured yesterday afternoon when a car and tractor-trailer collided at an intersection near Mann's Choice, Pa.

Jack Mitchell, about 44, of New Paris, driver of the automobile, was killed instantly, police said.

Five-year-old Richard Mock Jr., also of New Paris, a passenger in the car, was dead on arrival at Bedford County Memorial Hospital.

Mother Injured

The child's mother, Mrs. Dorothy Mock, 32, a third passenger in the car, is reported in "serious" condition at the hospital. Attaches said she sustained abrasions and contusions, lacerations of her left leg and a collapsed right lung.

Leslie Kyle, 48, of 209 West 15th Avenue, Juaniata, Pa., a suburb of Altoona, driver of the tractor trailer, was uninjured, police said.

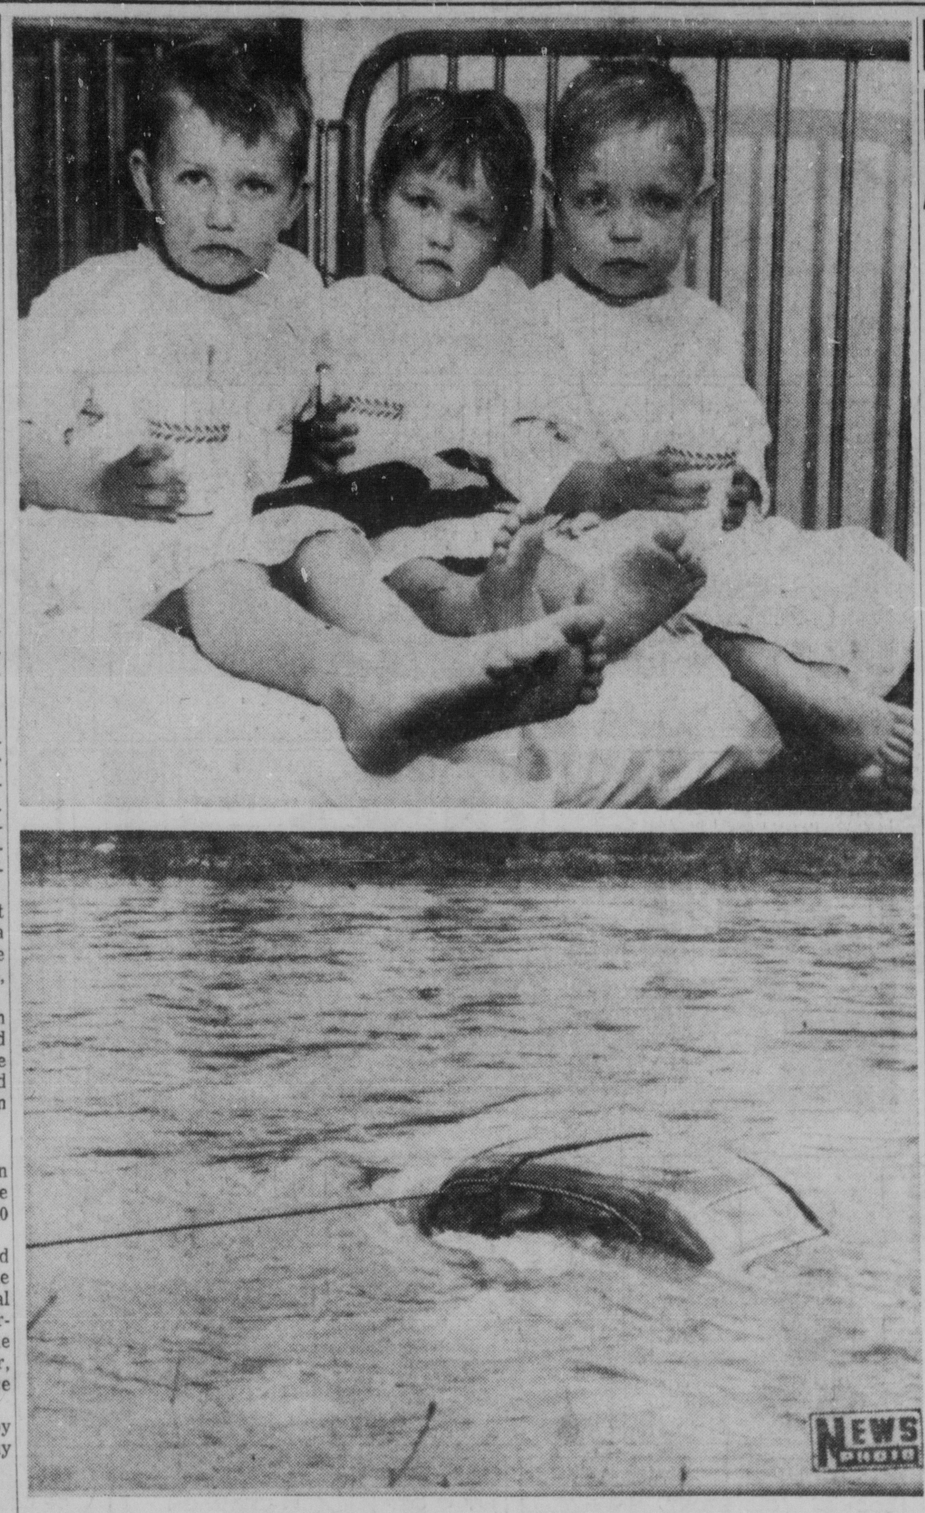
The tractor trailer, loaded with produce, was traveling toward Maryland south on State Route 31, according to police, who said Mitchell was driving the car on State Route 96.

Car Hits Truck

As he entered the intersection he rammed into the truck. The accident occurred about 2:40 p. m.

Police said that Mrs. Mock had been looking for someone to take her son to a doctor for medical attention and Mr. Mitcheli offered to take her in his car. While they were en route to the doctor, the accident occurred, police said.

The tractor-trailer is owned by the Lafferty Trucking Company of Altoona, Pa.



They Missed Tragedy

Parents Save Lives Of Tots After Crash

Mother Swims To Bring Help

Three small children escaped drowning yesterday morning because their mother swam for help as their father held their heads above water while they were trapped in their wrecked car in the swirling waters of Wills Creek about three miles north of Ellerslie.

Walter C. Bridges, 51, of Corriganville; four-year-old Walter Allen, and three-year-old twins, Sharon Kay and Kenneth Ray, spent a harrowing 30 to 45 minutes inside the car as the creek waters inched upward due to heavy rains of the past few days.

They were saved after frantic rescue efforts by members of the Hyndman Volunteer Fire Company. Although the father apparently suffered no ill effects, the three tots were taken to Memorial Hospital for treatment of exposure. Attaches said last night their conditions were good.

Car Runs Into Creek

Mrs. Bridges, 41, was driving the car along a county road about 11 a.m. in the direction of Hyndman when she missed a curve near Iron Bridge. The car plunged into the water and was carried downstream about 1,000 feet before it wedged against a boulder.

The water was rising and there was only a small air space in the car.

Mrs. Bridges got free from the car and swam to shore in the swift current, while the father remained in the car with the children and held their heads above water.

Frantically, the mother ran across the wide bottom land to the farm home of Howard Cook, who summoned the firemen.

Firemen Save Day

Volunteers arrived on the scene and then some returned to Hyndman to get a boat, as it was not possible to effect the rescue without one.

Howard Shaffer, however, swam to the car as soon as he arrived with the fire truck, and attached a rope to the car, connecting it to a tree on the bank.

Harry Ritchey, postmaster at Hyndman, and Donald Shaffer also swam to the car and got the father and three children from the water. They placed them on the roof of the auto until the boat arrived.

Children Hospitalized

The water was about five and a half feet deep at the point where the car wedged against the boulder.

After being taken ashore, the father and three tots were taken to a Hyndman physician's office for preliminary treatment before being brought to the local hospital.

Bedford volunteer firemen went to the scene with its boat, but one had been acquired in Hyndman between the time the call for aid was placed to the county seat and they arrived with it.

The father is reported to be a furloughed B&O track worker.

500 Work In Cancer Campaign

Volunteers were busy late last night at the Cancer Society offices, Union Street tabulating returns from the house-to-house solicitation, but no total was available.

Mrs. Lucile W. Roeder, chairman for the campaign, praised some 500 volunteer men and women who began the campaign Tuesday night despite a heavy rainfall and then went out again last night to complete the solicitation.

The canvassers left mail envelopes at homes where no one answered, and Cancer Society officials asked the contributions be mailed as soon as possible so final results of the drive can be tabulated.

Members of the Algonquin Chapter, National Secretaries Association, assisted volunteer bank tellers and other volunteers in counting and wrapping the money.

Mrs. Jean Cioni, Cancer Society secretary, said last night that solicitors and area captains who could not complete their reports last night may do so at the society offices today.

Road Program Is Two Years Behind Plan

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — Chairman John J. McMullen of the State Roads Commission considers the first four-year phase of the state's massive 12-year highway rebuilding program two years behind schedule.

He said the delay was due to increased costs of engineering, rights of way and construction.

McMullen expressed his views in a letter to the Anne Arundel County Public Works Dept., which had asked faster improvements to Maryland 2 from Parole to South River, south of here.

"This project," McMullen wrote, "was set up in the 12-year road program for surveys, plans and right-of-way acquisition during the 1954-57 period. Construction was provided in the 1958-61 period.

"At the present time, due to increased costs of engineering, rights-of-way and construction, the first four-year phase of the 12-year program is approximately two years behind schedule."

Although these cost factors make it impossible to advance the State Route 2 project, he said, "you may rest assured, however, that we will have this section of highway under contract at the earliest possible moment commensurate with the availability of funds."

Man, Child Die As Car Hits Truck

Woman 'Serious' After Collision Near Mann's Choice

Two persons were killed and a third was seriously injured yesterday afternoon when a car and tractor-trailer collided at an intersection near Mann's Choice, Pa

Jack Mitchell, about 44, of New Paris, driver of the automobile, was killed instantly, police said.

Five-year-old Richard Mock Jr., also of New Paris, a passenger in the car, was dead on arrival at Bedford County Memorial Hospital.

Mother Injured

The child's mother, Mrs. Dorothy Mock, 32, a third passenger in the car, is reported in "serious" condition at the hospital. Attaches said she sustained abrasions and contusions, lacerations of her left leg and a collapsed right lung.

Leslie Kyle, 48, of 209 West 15th Avenue, Juaniata, Pa., a suburb of Altoona, driver of the tractor trailer, was uninjured, police said.

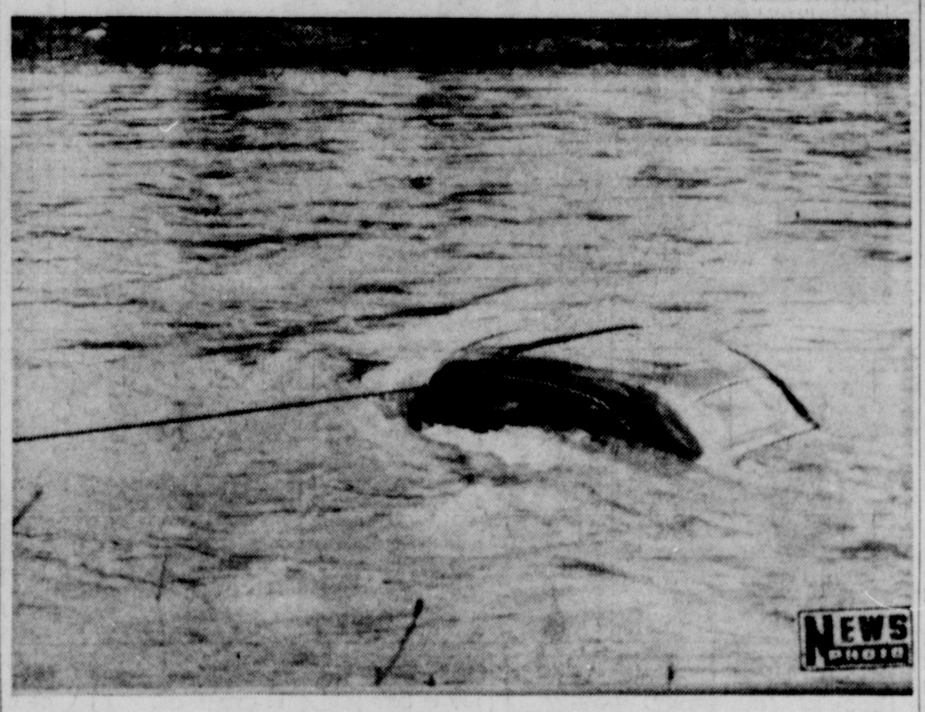
The tractor trailer, loaded with produce, was traveling toward Maryland south on State Route 31, according to police, who said Mitchell was driving the car on State Route 96.

Car Hits Truck

As he entered the intersection he rammed into the truck. The accident occurred about 2:40 p. m.

Police said that Mrs. Mock had been looking for someone to take her son to a doctor for medical attention and Mr. Mitcheli offered to take her in his car. While they were en route to the doctor, the accident occurred, police said.

The tractor-trailer is owned by the Lafferty Trucking Company of Altoona, Pa.



They Missed Tragedy

Parents Save Lives Of Tots After Crash

Mother Swims To Bring Help

Three small children escaped drowning yesterday morning because their mother swam for help as their father held their heads above water while they were trapped in their wrecked car in the swirling waters of Wills Creek about three miles north of Ellerslie.

Walter C. Bridges, 51, of Corriganville; four-year-old Walter Allen, and three-year-old twins, Sharon Kay and Kenneth Ray, spent a harrowing 30 to 45 minutes inside the car as the creek waters inched upward due to heavy rains of the past few days.

They were saved after frantic rescue efforts by members of the Hyndman Volunteer Fire Company. Although the father apparently suffered no ill effects, the three tots were taken to Memorial Hospital for treatment of exposure. Attaches said last night their conditions were good.

Car Runs Into Creek

Mrs. Bridges, 41, was driving the car along a county road about 11 a.m. in the direction of Hyndman when she missed a curve near Iron Bridge. The car plunged into the water and was carried downstream about 1,000 feet before it wedged against a boulder.

The water was rising and there was only a small air space in the car.

Mrs. Bridges got free from the car and swam to shore in the swift current, while the father remained in the car with the children and held their heads above water.

Frantically, the mother ran across the wide bottom land to the farm home of Howard Cook, who summoned the firemen.

Firemen Save Day

Volunteers arrived on the scene and then some returned to Hyndman to get a boat, as it was not possible to effect the rescue without one.

Howard Shaffer, however, swam to the car as soon as he arrived with the fire truck, and attached a rope to the car, connecting it to a tree on the bank.

Harry Ritchey, postmaster at Hyndman, and Donald Shaffer also swam to the car and got the father and three children from the water. They placed them on the roof of the auto until the boat arrived.

Children Hospitalized

The water was about five and a half feet deep at the point where the car wedged against the boulder.

After being taken ashore, the father and three tots were taken to a Hyndman physician's office for preliminary treatment before being brought to the local hospital.

Bedford volunteer firemen went to the scene with its boat, but one had been acquired in Hyndman between the time the call for aid was placed to the county seat and they arrived with it.

The father is reported to be a furloughed B&O track worker.

500 Work In Cancer Campaign

The canvassers left mail envelopes at homes where no one answered, and Cancer Society officials asked the contributions be mailed as soon as possible so final results of the drive can be tabulated.

Members of the Algonquin Chapter, National Secretaries Association, assisted volunteer bank tellers and other volunteers in counting and wrapping the money.

Mrs. Jean Cioni, Cancer Society secretary, said last night that solicitors and area captains who could not complete their reports last night may do so at the society offices today.
